PREFACE

This volume is the fourth in a series of various Postal Laws and Regulations handbooks that were published during the nineteenth century. These volumes were used by postmasters in the United States as a guide to operating their offices. The various Postal Laws and Regulations books, together with the annual Report of the Postmaster General and the United States Mail and Post Office Assistant, are the most useful group of official documents that United States postal history students and cover collectors can use for reference.

This particular copy of the 1852 edition is an unusual item in that it contains additional documents that were found in a copy belonging to Horatio King. Included is a 16 page supplemental report of postal laws and regulations dated September 20, 1852. King also pasted newspaper clippings into the back of his book that relate to new postal laws and foreign mail rate changes during the 1850's. The reproduction quality of these clippings is poor due to their age and stains from the mucilage that was used to attach them. Regardless, students will find much useful information in this new source of data.

Horatio King was born June 21, 1811, in Paris, Maine. He had a common school education and entered the printing and publishing trade. In 1839 he was appointed to a clerk's position in the Post Office Department in Washington, D.C. Working his way up he was made superintendent of the Foreign Mail Service in 1850, and 1st Assistant Postmaster General on March 28, 1854. He was made acting Postmaster General on March 9, 1859, when Postmaster General Aaron Brown died in office, remaining in this position until Joseph Holt was appointed March 14, 1859. On January 1, 1861, he was again made acting Postmaster General when Joseph Holt was made Secretary of War, and on February 12, 1861, was appointed Postmaster General by President James Buchanan. He was succeeded by Montgomery Blair on March 9, 1861. At this time King entered business in Washington and some of his advertising can be found in The United States Mail and Post Office Assistant. He died on May 20, 1897, at age 85.

I would like to thank Mr. Richard B. Graham, of Columbus, Ohio, for supplying me with the above information on Horatio King.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,

April 3, 1852.

In the exercise of authority conferred by an act of Congress approved on the sixteenth of September, eighteen hundred and fifty, entitled "An act making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department during the fiscal year ending June 30th, eighteen hundred and fifty-one," and which made an appropriation "for publishing new editions of the Post Office Laws and Regulations, and of the table of Post Offices," I have caused a compilation to be made of all the laws now in force relating to the business of this Department, and have made such alterations in and additions to the existing rules and regulations as experience and changes in the laws require.

So far as the Regulations here published effect changes in the existing rules or practice of mailing and bagging matter for distribution or otherwise, they are to go into effect on the first day of July next; and so far as they require changes in the practice of Postmasters in other particulars of their duty, they are to be observed immediately on their receipt.

TO POSTMASTERS.

In distributing the new edition of Post Office Laws and Regulations, the Postmaster General takes occasion to call the attention of Postmasters to the importance of a more strict, prompt, cheerful, and zealous observance on their part of the requirements here laid before them, and especially in certain important particulars following.

The Department depends for much information necessary to its efficiency and usefulness upon REPORTS made to it from day to day by the several Postmasters: for principally through these is it enabled to remedy imperfections and correct abuses in the several branches of its service. Each Postmaster should remember that he is as much bound in duty and in honor to report to the Department every case of error, delinquency, or abuse in the service—whether arising from wilful violations of the law or from the carelessness or neglect of Postmasters, contractors, or others, as he is to perform the ordinary routine duties of his office. So far from feeling any false delicacy or reluctance in reporting the mistakes or errors of other Postmasters, each one should feel a common interest with the others in having all abuses and imperfections in the service promptly reported to the Department; for in this way alone, perhaps, may he be advised of wrong-doing in his own office, which might otherwise remain concealed from him, operate to his prejudice, and subject him to pecuniary loss.

Let each Postmaster, then, keep in view and remembrance the duty of making—without any failure or exception—all the reports required to be made by the letter and spirit of these Regulations. Certainly no Postmaster who is animated by that zeal which should govern his official conduct, and which should lead him to identify the interests of the Department with his own, will either fail in this duty himself, or desire others to do so in respect to his own office.

Without intending to limit the zeal and vigilance of Postmasters to these objects alone, the Postmaster General especially enjoins it upon each one of them to keep himself well informed in respect to the mail service in his neighborhood: to report promptly to the Inspection Office every case in which a contractor shall fail to take from the Post Office the whole mail which he is bound to carry; or in which he shall leave any portion thereof on the road at any point short of that to which it should be carried; or shall allow the same to be exposed to depredation or injury; or shall use a mode of conveyance inferior to that specified in his contract.

It is also required that each Postmaster shall report without delay every case that comes to his knowledge, in which a Route Agent shall fail duly to mail and post bill all letters received by him; or in which he shall deliver such letters into a Post office, without having first duly mailed them.

Should any Postmaster disregard in any instance the injunctions thus earnestly enforced, the Postmaster General will deem it a grave offence against the regulations of the Department, and, if repeated, as evidence of unfitness for official trust.

It has come to the knowledge of the Postmaster General that Postmasters at certain distributing offices have, by means of circular letters, invited other Postmasters to send to their offices matter for distribution. This practice is forbidden, and Postmasters are cautioned to disregard these invitations. They will also disregard all declarations published on the covers of periodicals and pamphlets as to decisions of this Department in respect to the amount of postage chargeable on such publications. When a Postmaster is in doubt as to the postage chargeable on a particular publication, or in respect to any other point of his official duty, and cannot find a solution of his doubt in the published Regulations here furnished him, he should apply directly to the Department for instructions, and should not rely on expositions of the law received from any other quarter. Such cases will, however, rarely occur, if Postmasters make themselves thoroughly familiar with the contents of this book—as they are required to do.

For the protection of Postmasters, mail contractors and the public generally against imposition, notice is given that no person is authorized to travel or to act in any manner as a special agent of this Department who does not bear a commission issued by the Postmaster General under the seal of the Department.

Postmasters will find on the last page under the head of "Errata," notice of several typographical errors, which escaped correction. These errors should be corrected with pen and ink immediately on the receipt of the book.

Postmaster General.

C., and St. Louis, Mo., or with certain postmasters that have been designated as depositories.

For every deposite made with any of the said officers, duplicate certificates, (reciting that it is for the service of the Post Office Department,) must be taken and one of the said duplicates forthwith transmitted to the Third Assistant Postmaster General.

CHAPTER 2.

Post Roads.

SEC. 10. Post roads are—

1. Those roads of the country which are declared post roads by various acts of Congress.

2. All waters on which steamboats regularly pass from port to port.—Act March 3, 1823.

3. The navigable canals of the several States for the time during which the mail may be carried thereon.—42d sec. act 2d July, 1836.

4. All railroads in the United States.

5. Those roads on which the Postmaster General causes the mail to be carried from the nearest post offices on legally declared post roads, to court-houses not otherwise provided with the mail.

6. All roads to special offices.—Act March 3, 1825, Sec. 4.

7. And such as are established by the Postmaster General as Post routes under the 10th section of the act of March 3d, 1851, in cities and towns where the postmasters are appointed by the President of the United States.

CHAPTER 3.

Contractors.

SEC. 11. The Union is divided into four contract sections; a letting for one of these sections occurs every year, and contracts are made at such lettings for four consecutive years, commencing on the first day of July

The sections and their current contract terms are—

1. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and New York—current term to end 30th June, 1853.

2. New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Ohio—current term to end 30th June, 1852.

3. Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida—current term to end 30th June, 1855.

4. Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, California, Minnesota, Oregon, New Mexico, and Utah—current term to end 30th June, 1854.

SEC. 12. Each contractor will execute with sureties, contracts in duplicate, both to be returned to the Contract Office. One of these duplicates will be preserved in the Contract Office, and one reported to the Auditor. A copy will be furnished to the contractor by the Contract Office.

SEC. 13. If a post office depend for its supply of the mail upon the postages it collects, and the net proceeds thereof fall short of the amount which the contractor or carrier may be authorized to receive, he will have no claim on the Department for the deficiency. If, however, the proceeds of the office supplied, for a portion of the term of a special contract, fall short of the sum allowable to the contractor, and during another portion of that term exceed it, the excess, or so much thereof as may be necessary for that purpose, is to be applied to the payment of the deficiency.

SEC. 14. During the existence of a contract for supplying an office, the postmaster can only pay according to instructions, or in conformity with the contract, and he must forward to the Auditor the receipt of the contractor for each payment, immediately upon the close of the quarter.

SEC. 15. When any contractor fails to commence or abandons the service stipulated in his contract, it becomes the duty of the postmasters at the ends of the route to report the fact to the Contract Office, and to furnish the name of the person who will enter into contract at the lowest price, for the residue of the term.

SEC. 16. After the expiration of a contract, and until the Postmaster General has decided upon a new contract, or upon the expediency of discontinuing the office, postmasters cannot make any payment unless expressly authorized to do so by the Postmaster General.

SEC. 17. Contractors are required, in all cases, to carry the entire mail, and are not permitted to leave bags of newspapers and pamphlets on their routes ; they must give due attention to the preservation of mail bags, and must not allow them to be dragged about upon the pavement, or otherwise injured.

SEC. 18. The Postmaster General may annul a contract for failures on the part of the contractor ; for violating the Post Office laws ; for disobeying the instructions of the Department ; for refusing to discharge a carrier when required by the Department, or for assigning the contract without the consent of the Postmaster General.

SEC. 19. The Postmaster General is prohibited by law from knowingly making a contract for the transportation of the mail with any person who shall have entered into any combination, or proposed to enter into any combination, to prevent the making of any bid for a mail contract by any other person or persons, or who shall have made any agreement, or shall have given or performed, or promised to give or perform, any consideration to do, or not to do, anything whatever, in order to induce any other person or persons not to bid for a mail contract.

CHAPTER 4.

Proposals for carrying the Mail.

SEC. 20. A bid received after the time designated in the advertisement, or without the guaranty required by law, or that combines several routes in one sum of compensation, cannot be considered in competition with a regular proposal not adjudged to be extravagant.

SEC. 21. A bidder may offer, where the transportation called for in the advertisement is difficult or impracticable at certain seasons, to substitute an inferior mode of conveyance, or to intermit service a specified number of days, weeks, or months. He may propose to omit an office that is inaccessible, or is not on the stage road, the railway, or at a steamboat landing, as the case may be ; or he may offer to substitute an inferior mode of supply in such cases. He may propose different days and hours of departure and arrival, provided no more running time is asked, and it is obvious that no mail connection or other public accommodation is prejudiced. He may ask for more running time to the trip, during a specified number of days, at certain seasons of peculiarly bad roads ; but beyond these changes, a proposal for service different from the advertisement will prevent its being considered in competition with a regular bid not set aside for extravagance ; and where a bid contains any of the above alterations, their disadvantages will be estimated in comparing it with other proposals.

SEC. 22. There should be but one route bid for in a proposal.

SEC. 23. The route, the service, the yearly pay, the bidder's name and residence, and the name of each member of the firm, where a company offers, should be distinctly stated; also the mode of conveyance, if a higher mode than on horseback is intended.

SEC. 24. The bid should be sent enclosed under seal, and addressed to the ~~First~~ Assistant Postmaster General, with the words "Mail proposals in the State of _____," written on the letter; and should be despatched in time to be received by or before the time specified in the advertisement. Sec

SEC. 25. Under the act of 3d March, 1845, the route is to be let to the lowest bidder tendering sufficient guaranties for faithful performance, without other reference to the mode of transportation than may be necessary to provide for the due celerity, certainty, and security of such transportation. When the lowest bid proposes a mode of conveyance that is inadequate for the route, in respect to the certainty, security, and celerity of the mails, aside from an accommodation for travel, it will not be entitled to the route.

SEC. 26. When the bid does not name a mode of conveyance, it will be taken and understood to be for the lowest mode of conveyance, to wit: on horseback. When it proposes to carry according to the advertisement, and no mode of conveyance is stated for the route in the advertisement, it will be considered as offering only for horseback conveyance.

SEC. 27. Since the passage of the act of March 3, 1845, a new description of bid has been received. It specifies no mode of conveyance, but engages to carry the mail with certainty, celerity, and security, using the terms of the law. These bids are called, from the manner in which they are designated on the books of the Department, "Star bids." A bid proposing a specific mode of conveyance of as high a grade as two-horse coach transportation at the same, or a slightly increased, rate of compensation, is to be preferred to a star bid, unless the size of the mail requires a grade of transportation higher than that proposed in the specific bid. When the mail on the route is not so large as to require two-horse coach conveyance, a star bid, if the lowest, will be preferred to the specific bid.

SEC. 28. A modification of a bid, in any of its essential terms, is tantamount to a new bid, and cannot be received, so as to interfere with regular competition, after the last hour set for receiving bids.

SEC. 29. Postmasters should not certify the sufficiency of guarantors or sureties without knowing that they are persons of sufficient responsibility to meet the liability assumed.

CHAPTER 5.

Appointment of Postmasters.

SEC. 30. At all post offices where the compensation of the postmaster exceeded one thousand dollars for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1835, or for any subsequent fiscal year, a deputy postmaster is to be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and can be removed by the President only.—33d sec. act of 2d July, 1836. At all other offices, the Postmaster General has the sole power of appointment and removal.—1st sec. act 3d March, 1825.

SEC. 31. Upon the appointment of a postmaster, he is furnished with a letter of appointment and a blank bond. Upon executing the bond, as required, taking the oath of office, enclosing them in a letter directed to the Appointment Office and depositing such letter in the post office, and not before, he is authorized to take charge of the office.

SEC. 32. No person can be appointed postmaster who cannot legally execute an official bond.—3d sec. act 3d March, 1825.

SEC. 33. No person can hold the office of postmaster, who is not an actual resident of the city or town wherein the post office is situated, or within the delivery of the office.—Sec. 36 of act of 1836.

CHAPTER 6.

Steps to be taken on receiving the Appointment.

SEC. 34. Every person who receives the appointment of postmaster, must take and subscribe, before a magistrate, the following oaths, viz :

“I, _____, do swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that I will faithfully perform all the duties required of me, and abstain from everything forbidden by the laws in relation to the establishment of the Post Office and post roads within the United States.”

“I do solemnly swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that I will support the Constitution of the United States.”—Act of 1825, sec. 2.—Constitution of the United States, art. 6.

SEC. 35. These oaths should be certified by the magistrate who administers them.

SEC. 36. The person appointed will then execute the bond forwarded to him by the Department. It must be signed in the presence of suitable witnesses, by himself and at least two sureties, the sufficiency of each of whom, for the payment of the sum inserted in the bond, must be shown by the certificate of the magistrate who administers the oath.—Act of 1825, sec. 3.

SEC. 37. The oath and bond are then to be placed in the mail, and transmitted to the Appointment Office, and when received a commission will be issued.

SEC. 38. In case of the death, removal from the State, insolvency or any other disability of one or both of the sureties, the postmaster will report the fact to the Department, in order that a new bond may be executed.

CHAPTER 7.

Charge of the Office.

SEC. 39. The office of postmaster is one of much trust and responsibility, and the appointment proceeds from a confidence reposed in him personally by the appointing power. For this reason he cannot be permitted to transfer the charge of his office, and the performance of its duties to another; thus creating a sinecure, and virtually substituting in his stead as postmaster, a person unknown to the Department.

SEC. 40. The duties of his office must be performed only by himself, personally, or by a sworn assistant or assistants, whom he may employ to aid him, when necessary; for the care and attention of every one of whom he will be responsible to the Department.

SEC. 41. Every assistant, before he is permitted to have any agency in the business of the office, must take and subscribe the oaths set forth in the preceding chapter, which must be certified by a magistrate, and forwarded to the Appointment Office.—Act of 1825, sec. 2.

SEC. 42. On taking charge of a post office, the postmaster will make in duplicate four several inventories of the public property belonging to it as follows:

1. Of all laws, regulations, list of post offices, circulars, orders, &c.
2. Of all locks, keys, and mail bags.
3. Of all letters, packets, newspapers, pamphlets, and other mail matter, stating the amount of unpaid postages thereon; and
4. Of all desks, cases, and other furniture or fixtures, books, maps, blanks, and stationery allowed or furnished by the Department.

SEC. 43. He will deliver one of each of these duplicates with his receipt thereon to his predecessor. The other he will transmit—No. 1 to the Appointment Office—No. 2 to the Inspection Office, and Nos. 3 and 4 to the Auditor's Office.

SEC. 44. Precaution should be taken by the postmaster in all cases to appoint an assistant, to prevent the office from being left without a duly qualified person to perform its duties, in case of the necessary absence, the sickness, resignation, or death of the postmaster.

SEC. 45. The postmaster will cause his clerks, and also the letter carriers of his office, to take the necessary oaths of office, and will send them for file to the Appointment Office, before they enter upon their duties. The agents of the Department will promptly report all instances of non-compliance with this regulation to the Appointment or Inspection Office as the case may be.

SEC. 46. Postmasters, assistants, and clerks, regularly employed and engaged in post offices, and also post riders and drivers of mail stages, are by law exempt from militia duty and serving on juries, and from any fine or penalty for neglect thereof.—Act of 1825, sec. 35 ; Act of 1836, sec. 34.

SEC. 47. A postmaster will suffer no person whatever, except his duly sworn assistants, or clerks and letter carriers, who may also have been sworn, to have access to the letters, newspapers, and packets in his office, or whatever constitutes a part of the mail, or to the mail locks or keys.

SEC. 48. Mails should not be opened or made up by the postmaster or his assistant within the reach of persons not authorized to handle them; the postmaster will therefore while discharging these duties, if a room be appropriated to the use of his office, exclude from it all persons except his assistants regularly employed and sworn.

SEC. 49. For the safe keeping of letters and packets at post offices, where the business is not so extensive as to require the appropriation of a room to that use, a cheap, plain desk, or case, is to be provided at the expense of the Department, with a good lock and key. But neither this nor any other contingent expense will be allowed, unless the net proceeds of the office amount to at least $5 per quarter.

SEC. 50. The postmaster will keep his office open for the despatch of business, every day, except Sunday, during the usual hours of business in the place; and attend at such other hours as may be necessary to receive and despatch mails.—Act of 1825, sec. 11.

SEC. 51. When the mail arrives on Sunday, he will keep his office open for one hour or more, if the public convenience require it, after the arrival and assortment thereof, unless it be during the time of public worship; in which case he will keep the office open for one hour or more, if necessary, after the religious services have ceased.

SEC. 52. It is expected that a disposition to accommodate will prompt him to search for and deliver a letter, on the application of a person who cannot call during the usual office hours.

SEC. 53. The postmaster having voluntarily assumed the responsibilities of office, he is not at liberty to abandon them, either by closing his office, or by transferring its management and funds to an irresponsible person. Upon receiving notice, at any time, of his wish to retire, the Department will take measures to select and appoint a suitable successor. But until a successor is appointed, and has been qualified by giving bond, he will continue in charge of the office, either personally or by an assistant.

SEC. 54. A postmaster is responsible for the discharge, by himself or his sworn assistant, of all the duties of the office, until his successor shall have been appointed and qualified—even although the term for which he may have been appointed has expired.

SEC. 55. Whether the appointment be from the President or the Postmaster General, in the event of death, the responsibility of the sureties will continue, for the fidelity of the person left in charge of the office, until a successor is appointed and qualified.

SEC. 56. And it may be lawful for the sureties or any one of them to perform the duties of postmaster, by themselves or agent, until their successor be appointed. The person performing such duties should, before entering upon the discharge of them, take the usual oath.

SEC. 57. All instructions, circulars, and orders received by a postmaster, from any branch, or officer of the Department, are to be filed in the office, and turned over to his successor. In like manner he will turn over to his successor, or in the event of the discontinuance of the office, deliver to the nearest postmaster, as public property, all desks, cases, and other furniture or fixtures, and all books, maps, blanks, stationery, and other articles, which have either been furnished to him as postmaster, or have been charged and allowed at any time, whether as contingent expenses in the quarterly account, or as items in the commission, emolument, or other account, and which may remain on hand when the vacancy or discontinuance occurs.

SEC. 58. If, from any cause, a post office ceases to receive and deliver mails, the nearest postmaster on the same route will report the fact to the Department, and open the mails addressed to such office, deliver the letters and papers to the persons entitled to them, and account for the postage, in the returns of his own office.

SEC. 59. When the Postmaster General shall change the name of an existing post office, the order will not take effect until the postmaster shall have executed new bonds and returned them to the Appointment Office. When the bond shall have been thus executed and returned, the name designated by the Postmaster General will be used from and after the first day of the next succeeding quarter. But no postmaster can change the name of his office without the order of the Department; and he is expected to be particular in seeing none other substituted. He must not remove the site of the office from the usual post road, or make any material change in such site without the consent of the Department.

SEC. 60. In all communications to the Department, (as well as in his correspondence,) every postmaster should embrace in the date, the name of his post office, county, (district or parish,) and State.

What may be admitted into the Mail.

SEC. 61. The mails were established for the transmission of intelligence; the articles, therefore, proper to be sent in them are letters, newspapers, pamphlets, and other printed matter, including parcels and bound books not weighing over thirty-two ounces.

SEC. 62. Packets of every description, weighing more than three pounds are to be excluded, except public documents, printed by order of either House of Congress, or such publication or books as have been or may be published, procured or purchased, by order of either House of Congress, or joint resolution of the two Houses, and legally franked.

CHAPTER 8.

How the Mails should be made up.

SEC. 63. Letters received to be sent by mail, should be carefully marked with the name of the post office at which they are received, and the abbreviated name of the State or Territory, the day of the month on which they are forwarded in the mail, and the rate of postage chargeable on them; or if they be free, with the word Free. The name, date, and Free, may be either written or stamped.

SEC. 64. At offices where there is much business, the work of rating and marking should be performed as fast as the letters are received, and not left until the time of closing the mail, when in the hurry of business many errors might be committed.

SEC. 65. Letters, however, must bear post-mark, and post bills must bear the date on which the mail containing them is actually sent off, although they may have been made up on a previous day.

SEC. 66. Postmasters will carefully assort the letters deposited in their offices for mailing, and will mail them as follows, to wit:

Every postmaster will mail and postbill direct to the place addressed, 1st, all letters for his own State or Territory; 2d, all letters, for post offices in other States and Territories, which should not pass through a distributing office on their proper route to the office of delivery; and 3d, all letters on which the instruction "mail direct" shall be written.

Letters not required by the foregoing provisions to be mailed direct shall be postbilled and mailed to the distributing office through which they should first pass on the proper route to the place of their destination—unless the mailing office be a distributing office.

All letters received at a distributing office for distribution, or deposited therein for mailing, and which are addressed to any other distributing office, or to places within the State or Territory where such distributing office is situated, or to places not more than one hundred miles distant from such distributing office, or which would not pass through a distributing office on the proper route to the office of delivery, shall be mailed direct; but if the office of delivery is more than one hundred miles from such distributing office, and the letters should properly pass through one or more distributing offices, they shall be mailed and postbilled to the last distributing office through which they are to pass on their route to the office of delivery. (Instructions as to the mailing of letters of which special accounts are required will be addressed to, and affect only, the distributing offices.)

SEC. 67. Each package containing letters mailed and postbilled direct should be plainly directed on the outside with the name of the office to which it is to be sent, and of the county and State in which such office is situated.

SEC. 68. Packages containing letters for distribution should be plainly directed in the same manner, with the addition of the letters "D. P. O." (for distributing post office) after the name of the office.

SEC. 69. Every postmaster, special agent, or other officer of the Department, will report to the Postmaster General each case which may come to his knowledge in which any postmaster shall have so mailed letters as to subject them to more distributions than are authorized by the foregoing instructions.

SEC. 70. The number of letters and amount of postage are to be entered under the proper heads in the post bill, to be sent with them. The names of the offices from and to which they are sent should appear in their proper places at the top of the bill, which must be plainly dated and signed by the postmaster.

SEC. 71. The post bill being completed, its contents are to be entered in the Account of mails sent, stating the name of the office and State to which the mail is sent, (and if sent to a distributing office for distribution, the letters D. P. O. must be added after the name of the office.) Letters for distribution, and letters for delivery, should be made up in separate packets, and each be accompanied by a post bill.

SEC. 72. The letters are to be made up into bundles, and the post bill with them, wrapped in paper of proper strength, and tied with twine. If there are more letters for one office than can be conveniently put into one bundle, they should be made up into two or more bundles, and numbered; the post bill being put into the package having the highest number, and the letters P. B. should be added to the number of the package containing the post bill. When there are more than one package included in the same post bill, the postmaster in entering the same in his account of mails sent, will put at the end of the name of the office to which the packages are sent, the number of packages included in the entry.

SEC. 73. The mails for all the offices to which there are any letters addressed, being in this manner complete, they are to be put into the bag or bags destined to receive them, which must be locked and delivered to the carrier.

SEC. 74. Post bills, as to year, month, and day of the month, should always be fully and plainly written, and the date should, in all cases, correspond with the day on which they are actually sent, without regard to the day on which they may happen to have been made up.

SEC. 75. Way offices on railroads will be supplied by exchanging of pouches as the cars pass, without waiting for time to change the mail, and postmasters at such offices should have the mails ready when the cars arrive.

CHAPTER 9.

Receiving and Dispatching mails.

SEC. 76. A postmaster will always be in readiness, in person, or by his assistants, to receive the mail when it arrives, and dispatch it with all possible expedition.

SEC. 77. If no special order upon the subject has been made in regard to his office, he is allowed seven minutes only to change the mail.

SEC. 78. If the mail be carried in a stage, coach, or sulky, it will be the duty of the driver to deliver it as near the door of the post office as he can come with his vehicle, but not to leave his horses, and he should not be permitted to throw the mail on the ground.

SEC. 79. The postmaster will never detain a mail beyond the time fixed for its departure, except in pursuance of special instructions received from the Department.

SEC. 80. When the mail is to remain but a few minutes at his office, his mail should be made up and ready to be put into the mail-bag before the time when it usually arrives.

SEC. 81. He will stop all packets which he finds going in the wrong, and put them in the right direction.

SEC. 82. In case of a failure of the mail, he will forward all the packets by the next trip.

SEC. 83. It is inadmissible to send letters in a canvas bag without a lock, unless they are enclosed in a locked bag.

SEC. 84. Never deliver the mail bag to the carrier without being certain that it is locked.

CHAPTER 10.

Opening the mail.

SEC. 85. Upon the arrival of the mail at any post office, the packets addressed to that office, and none other, should be opened, and the postmaster will find with each one a bill of the contents, called a post bill. Compare this bill with the contents, and if they do not agree, note upon the bill the amount of the difference, and whether undercharged or overcharged.

SEC. 86. Every postmaster will then look over the letters thus received, to see if the postages be properly charged or marked on them, and correct the rates on the letters, where he finds mistakes, noting the amount corrected on the bill, as under or overcharged.

SEC. 87. If a postmaster finds any letters that are not for his delivery, and are missent to his office, he will put them in the proper place to be forwarded, noting on the bill the amount forwarded, and writing on the letters the words "missent and forwarded," with the date. They should be forwarded by the first mail.

SEC. 88. These examinations having been made, the postmaster is ready to deliver the letters, newspapers, &c.

SEC. 89. Upon making up the mail, it is the duty of every postmaster, when he knows that any letter has been illegally franked, or that the frank on any letter is forged, to erase such frank, and charge the letter with the legal postage; and the postmaster at the office of delivery of any letter which he knows has been illegally franked, or on which the frank has been forged, is directed to charge such letter with the legal postage. In all such cases, the postmaster will immediately report to the Department the name of the person whose frank has been so erased, and the reasons therefor, and all the facts in regard thereto. If, upon an exhibition of any letter franked and rated with postage, upon which postage has been charged and collected, it shall appear that the same was a letter rightfully and legally franked by the person who wrote it, or if written by another at the request of him who franks it, upon the business of the office of the person franking, the postage will be refunded, and the proper entries made.

SEC. 90. Having carefully examined the post bills, and found them right, or discovered and corrected their errors, as well in casting up, as in the particulars above mentioned, every postmaster will enter their contents in the Account of mails received, stating the name of the office (and State, if out of his own,) from which each bill came.

SEC. 91. Every postmaster will enter the amount of unpaid letters, as it is charged in the bill, whether the charge be correct or erroneous. If erroneous, it falls either under the denomination of undercharged or overcharged, and by an entry of the sum, under or overcharged, in the proper column, that error is balanced.

SEC. 92. All letters received by mail are to be entered in the Account of mails received, though no post bill accompany them, noting on the account the fact that no post bill was received.

SEC. 93. Letters received by mail regularly marked paid by the postmaster, or having on them an adequate prepaid stamp, are to be delivered as paid, though they be entered in the bill as unpaid. In such case the postmaster will make the proper correction on the post bill; inform the postmaster who mailed the letter of the mistake, and request him to make the necessary correction in his Account of mails sent. In all cases where similar mistakes are discovered, postmasters will report the fact to the Auditor.

SEC. 94. When a postmaster opens the mail bag, he should be careful to leave no packets of letters or newspapers addressed to his office in it; and, if his office be at a connecting point of the mails, from which other mails branch, he will carefully examine the packets in the bag, take out all such as are addressed to offices supplied by the branching mails, and give them their proper direction by the earliest conveyance. When this is neglected, it is expected that the first postmaster who discovers the neglect will return the missent packets, and promptly report the fact to the Department.

CHAPTER 11.

Time allowed for opening the mail.

SEC. 95. Seven minutes are allowed for opening and closing the mails at all offices where no particular time is specified; but on railroad and steamboat routes, there is to be no more delay than is necessary to deliver and receive the bags.

CHAPTER 12.

Mails for distribution, in what manner to be made up.

SEC. 96. Distributing offices are established to insure certainty and regularity in the transmission of letters and packets between remote points; and to this end, besides the usual business of a post office, certain peculiar duties are performed therein.

SEC. 97. All post bills sent from distributing offices are to be filled according to the directions in chapter 8, with the contents of each parcel, and addressed either to the particular office to which the letters are destined, or to the proper distributing office as such. These post bills are then to be dated, and entered in the Account of mails sent from the distributing office.

SEC. 98. A postmaster at a distributing office will not open and distribute a mail which is addressed to another office.

SEC. 99. If letters be sent by any postmaster to a distributing office, when they should have been mailed direct to the offices to which they are addressed, the postmaster at such distributing office will request the postmaster so sending to correct his practice; and if continued, report him, for such violation of instructions, to the appointment office.

SEC. 100. All letters and packets received for distribution, are to be distributed and remailed before the departure of the next mail, if practicable.

CHAPTER 13.

Time allowed for closing mails at Distributing Offices.

SEC. 101. The great mails are to be closed at all distributing offices not more than one hour before the time fixed for their departure; and all other mails at those offices, and all mails at all other offices, not more than half an hour before that time, unless the departure is between 9 o'clock, P. M., and 5, A. M., in which case the mail is to be closed at 9, P. M.—Act of 1825, sec. 11.

NOTE.—Under the provisions of the act of 3d March, the mode of computing the rates upon inland letters—i. e., letters from one office within the United States or Territories to another, and also upon letters between the United States and the British North American provinces, is as follows, to wit: Single rate, if not exceeding half an ounce; double rate, if exceeding half an ounce, but not exceeding an ounce; treble rate, if exceeding an ounce, but not exceeding an ounce and a half; and so on, charging an additional rate for every additional half ounce or fraction of half an ounce.

The mode of computing rates upon letters to Great Britain, and to all other foreign countries, the British North American provinces excepted, will remain as at present, under the act of 3d March, 1849, and agreeably to instructions appended to the table of foreign postages.

The 10 or 15 cents (according to the distance) pays for the single letter from any post office in the United States, to any post office in either of the British North American provinces; and vice versa; pre-payment is optional in either country, but a pre-payment of any thing less than the full rate is not to be regarded.

The six-pence (6d.) and shilling marks of prepayment in the British North American provinces will be recognized.

DIRECTIONS.—1st. Every letter or parcel, not exceeding half an ounce in weight, shall be deemed a single letter or rate. 2d. All drop-letters, or letters placed in any post office, not for transmission, but for delivery only, shall be charged with postage at the rate of one cent each.

SEC. 103. The distance according to which postage is chargeable, is that on the post road from one office to another, upon which the mail is conveyed.

SEC. 104. Letters should in all cases be sent by the most expeditious routes, unless otherwise ordered by the person sending the same.

SEC. 105. It is a penal offence to deposite in any post office to be conveyed in the mail, within the United States, any envelope or packet containing letters addressed to different persons. 13th section of the act of 1847.

CHAPTER 15.

Postage on Ship and Steamboat letters.

SEC. 106. All ship letters and packets are to be charged with a postage of six cents each, when delivered from the office at which they are first received ; when forwarded in the mail to other offices, with two cents, in addition to the ordinary rates of postage. They should all be marked "Ship," at the time of receiving them. This applies to all letters and packets brought by vessels from foreign countries, as well as those conveyed from one port to another in the United States over routes not declared post roads.

SEC. 107. Masters of foreign packets are not to be paid anything for letters delivered into the office ; such letters are, notwithstanding, to be charged with postage, when delivered from the office, or forwarded by mail.

SEC. 108. The above rates of postage are not to be increased on letters and packets, carried in a private ship or vessel, from one port in the United States to another, though a part of the voyage be over a water declared to be a post road. Thus, the Mississippi river, from New Orleans to the mouth, is a post road ; yet letters carried by ship between New Orleans and any other port in the United States, are subject to the usual ship letter postage. But if the whole of the water between any two ports, be a post road by law, then inland postage will be charged.

SEC. 109. Letters and packets that are carried on any of the waters of the United States, in vessels, under an arrangement with the Department, are subject to the same postage as if carried in the mail overland.

SEC. 110. Upon letters and packets received from the masters of steamboats, on waters deemed post roads, the persons addressed will be charged, when delivered to them, the same postage as if the letters and packets had been conveyed in the mail overland.

SEC. 111. If a letter be received as above, to be sent in the mail to another office, there will be charged the proper rate of postage for the distance between the place at which the letter was placed on board the boat, and the office to which it is addressed. Letters brought by steamboats should be marked "Steamboat," at the time of receiving them.

SEC. 112. For every letter received by a postmaster at a sea port, to be conveyed to a foreign country, by transient vessels from such port, there shall be paid to the postmaster one cent.—Act of 1825, sec. 34.

SEC. 113. The master (except of a foreign or mail packet) is to be paid two cents for each letter and packet delivered by him, except at ports on Lake Erie, where one cent is to be paid to the master, and except where special contracts are made.

SEC. 114. If the letters be delivered into the post office by a passenger or sailor, and not in behalf of the master, nothing is to be paid for them; they are, nevertheless, to be charged with ship letter postage, and the number entered in the account of ship letters, with the name of the vessel in which they were brought.

SEC. 115. For every letter or packet, which has not passed through a post office, delivered by the master of a steamboat, every postmaster will pay him two cents, or one cent if on Lake Erie, unless his boat carries letters and packets under a contract with the Department. He will take the receipt of the master, specifying the number of letters, and the places from which they were brought.

SEC. 116. The account of steamboat letters received, with the sums paid for them, and the postage on such as are to be delivered from the office, is to be kept in the account of ship and steamboat letters received, and as the account of ship letters.

CHAPTER 16.

Postage on Way Letters.

SEC. 117. Way letters are such letters as a mail carrier receives on his way between two post offices. The carrier will deliver them to the first post office at which he arrives. The postmaster will rate them with postage, writing against the rate, the word "way."—Act of 1825, sec. 20.

SEC. 118. If such way letters are within the delivery of the office, the amount of their postage is to be noted on one of the bills received by the same post, and when the bills in the account of mails received are entered, such amount of postage in the column headed way letter, is to be entered also.

SEC. 119. If any of these way letters are not to be delivered by the postmaster, their postage is not to be entered in that column, but the letters are to be included in the post bill with the other letters for the office to which they are addressed.

SEC. 120. The postmaster will pay the mail carrier one cent if demanded for each way letter which he delivers to him, and add that cent to the ordinary postage on the letter.

CHAPTER 17.

POSTAGE ON NEWSPAPERS AND OTHER PRINTED MATTER.

SEC. 121. Newspaper rates, per quarter, when sent from the office of publication, to actual and bona fide subscribers.

For each newspaper, not exceeding three ounces in weight, the annexed rates per quarter are to be paid quarterly in advance at the office where they are delivered to the subscribers. These rates apply only where the paper is sent from the office of publication to actual and bona fide subscribers.	Daily.	Tri-weekly.	Semi-weekly.	Weekly.	Semi-monthly.	Monthly.

Directions.

Weekly papers only, when sent as above stated, are to be delivered free from post offices situated in the county where they are published; and this, although conveyed in the mail over 50 miles. But they are not to be delivered free from offices out of the county of their publication to subscribers residing in the county where they are published.

SEC. 122. Under the provisions of the 2d section of the act of 1851 no newspapers other than those published weekly ONLY are entitled to circulate free of postage in the counties where published. The office of publication is the office where the newspaper is printed, and there can be no other office of publication in another county for the purpose of securing an additional free circulation. Postmasters are not bound to receive from the publishers weekly newspapers published in the city, town or village where the post office is kept, and deliver them to subscribers calling at their office for them. The right to "circulate in the mail within the county where published" does not impose on postmasters the duty of receiving and delivering papers which do not go into the mail; and where a publisher seeks to throw upon the postmaster the labor of delivering his papers for the purpose of relieving him from the expense of their delivery, the postmaster will be justified in refusing to deliver them. He should, in such cases, inform the publishers of his determination not to receive such papers.

If a postmaster receives and delivers such papers for the convenience of the publishers or subscriber, he cannot charge any postage thereon; and the Department desires that postmasters should act with courtesy in this respect, and deliver such few papers as may be sent to their offices for the convenience of the subscriber; but they are not expected to receive them when the number is such as to indicate that it is the intention to throw upon the postmaster a labor which the publisher should perform.

SEC. 123. In determining newspaper postages, the distances are to be computed from the office of publication, and not from the county line of the county in which the paper is published; and the distance is also to be computed over the route on which it is carried. This postage is chargeable by the newspaper, not by the sheet. Hence, if two or more newspapers be printed on one sheet, full postage must be charged on each.

SEC. 124. Newspapers containing not over 300 square inches are to be charged one-quarter of the foregoing rates.

SEC. 125. The weight of newspapers must be taken or determined when they are in a dry state.

SEC. 126. Postmasters are not entitled to receive newspapers free of postage under their franking privilege.

SEC. 127. Newspapers published weekly only in a county adjoining the Canada line may be sent free to Canada, provided they do not leave the county of publication until they cross the line into Canada.

SEC. 128. When such papers are sent out of the county where published, to be delivered from a post office in an adjoining county in the United States, no matter how short the distance, full postage must be charged.

SEC. 129. Newspaper publishers may send and receive their exchange newspapers to and from Canada, free of charge.

SEC. 130. Publishers of newspapers, pamphlets, periodicals, and magazines, under the provisions of the second section of the act of 3d March, 1851, may interchange their publications reciprocally free of postage, provided such publications do not exceed sixteen ounces in weight. Such interchange must be confined to a single copy of each publication; but it is not limited to an exchange of newspaper for newspaper and periodical for periodical; but publishers of newspapers have the right to exchange with publishers of periodicals under the late act of Congress. Such publishers may also enclose in their publications the bills for subscriptions thereto without any additional charge for postage; and this privilege extends also to the transmission of a receipted bill after the same has been paid.

SEC. 131. A newspaper is not a periodical within the meaning and intent of the provision which requires the postage on periodicals to be paid in advance, and declares that the postage thereon shall be one-half of the rates previously specified in the second section of the act; but all subscribers to newspapers were and still are required by the provisions of the thirtieth section of the act of March, 1825, to pay one quarter's postage in advance; by so doing, however, they are not entitled to have the postage reduced below the established rates.

SEC. 132. The postage on newspapers weighing less than three ounces, "sent from the office of publication to actual and bona fide subscribers," is fixed by law by the quarter only, and is required to be paid in advance. Hence, no person can be considered an actual and bona fide subscriber to a newspaper, and entitled to pay postage thereon at the quarterly rates, who shall only take a newspaper for a less time than three months. Actual and bona fide subscribers to papers for three months or more, who change their residences temporarily, may have their paper sent without pre-payment, but must pay a quarter's postage in advance at the office of delivery, or else pay the unpaid transient rate.

SEC. 133. Publishers cannot send specimen numbers of their papers to postmasters and others (as has been much practiced heretofore under the old law) without pre-paying the postage thereon.

SEC. 134. Publications borrowing the name, having the form and some of the characteristics of a newspaper, printed for gratuitous circulation and depending on their advertisements for support, cannot be sent by mail gratuitously to persons not actual and bona fide subscribers upon the footing of newspapers "sent from the office of publication to actual and bona fide subscribers;" but must be charged with the transient rates, which must be collected in the mailing office.

SEC. 135. A newspaper is defined to be any printed publication issued in numbers, and published at short stated intervals of not more than a month, conveying intelligence of passing events. It generally consists of a sheet, but may be composed of two sheets of paper. In such case it is chargeable with single newspaper postage only; provided the two sheets in the aggregate do not exceed three ounces in weight, or nineteen hundred square inches in size. If it exceed such weight or size it is to be rated as a pamphlet.

SEC. 136. Contractors, mail carriers, railroad and steamboat lines may carry newspapers out of the mails, for sale or distribution among regular subscribers. But if such newspapers are delivered to the postmaster, to distribute, postage must be charged and collected.

SEC. 137. A newspaper, pamphlet, circular or other printed sheet, if in a wrapper, should be so folded and wrapped that its character can be readily determined; and so that any prohibited writing, marks or signs upon it may easily be detected. If closely enveloped and sealed it is chargeable with letter postage. Reprints of books or magazines in newspaper form are to be rated with pamphlet postage.

SEC. 138. Newspaper extras, which contain chiefly republications of books, tales, essays, and notices not relating to passing events of general interest, are to be rated as pamphlets.

SEC. 139. The United States postage on newspapers, periodicals, and other matter not chargeable with letter postage, when sent out of the United States, must be pre-paid at the full rates—i. e. the usual quarterly rates to the line upon such newspapers and the full rates chargeable to subscribers on such periodicals as shall be addressed to regular subscribers, and the transient rates upon all publications not sent to regular subscribers, except where different rates are established as indicated in table of foreign postages.

SEC. 140. Foreign newspapers remailed, or first mailed in this country, must be charged with the rate for transient papers, which must be pre-paid.

SEC. 141. Prospectuses of newspapers whether accompanying the same or sent separately, are to be charged as circulars, and postage required in advance.

SEC. 142. Rates of postage to be charged upon all transient newspapers, and every other description of printed matter, except newspapers and periodicals published at intervals not exceeding three months, and sent from the office of publication to actual and bona fide subscribers.

NOTE.—For each additional ounce, or fractional part of an ounce, beyond the ten ounces embraced in this table, an additional rate must be charged.

Directions.

1st. On every transient newspaper, unsealed circular, handbill, engraving, pamphlet, periodical, magazine, book, and every other description of printed matter, the above rates must in all cases be pre-paid, according to the weight. If the amount paid and marked on such printed matter is not sufficient to pay the whole postage due, the excess of weight beyond that paid for is to be charged with double the rate which would have been charged if pre-paid, and the postage on such excess collected at the office of delivery.

2d. Whenever any printed matter on which the postage is required to be pre-paid, shall, through the inattention of postmasters, or otherwise, be sent without pre-payment, the same shall be charged with double the above rates.

3d. Bound books and parcels of printed matter, not weighing over thirty-two ounces, shall be deemed mailable matter.

4th. Periodicals published at intervals, not exceeding three months, and sent from the office of publication to actual and bona fide subscribers, are to be charged with one-half the rates mentioned in the last above table, and a quarter's postage thereon must in all cases be paid in advance at the post office where such publications are to be delivered. Periodicals published at intervals of more than three months are charged with the full rate, which must be pre-paid at the office where they are mailed.

Publishers of periodicals may prepay the postage on their issues, but can have no deduction of postage on account of such prepayment. When a periodical is published only quarterly, the actual and bona fide subscriber for such periodical may pay in advance and have the benefit of the advance payment, provided he pays to the postmaster at the office where he is to receive the periodical before its delivery.

Subscribers to periodicals to obtain the benefit of the provision in regard to prepayment, must pay the full quarter's postage before the delivery of the first number, when there are several numbers to be delivered during the quarter. If, by reason of any increase in the size of the periodicals, or otherwise, it shall appear that the whole quarter's postage was not so paid in advance, the subscriber will lose the benefit of prepayment, and the numbers received during the whole quarter will be charged with the double or unpaid rate, and the subscriber will be credited with only the amount paid in advance.

SEC. 143. Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

SEC. 144. Corrected proof sheets are to be charged with pamphlet postage in case the corrections be those only of typographical errors; but if new matter be introduced by the corrections, or any notations made by which information is asked or conveyed, or instructions given in writing, the sheets are subject to letter postage.

SEC. 145. Postmasters will charge letter postage on all packets that are closely enveloped and sealed, so that their contents cannot be known.

In case there is on or in any newspaper, periodical, pamphlet, or other printed matter or paper connected therewith, any manuscript of any kind by which information shall be asked for, or communicated in writing, or by marks or signs, the said newspaper, periodical, pamphlet, or other printed matter becomes subject to letter postage; and it is the duty of the postmaster to remove the wrappers and envelopes from all printed matter and pamphlets not charged with letter postage, for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is upon or connected with any such printed matter, or in such package, any matter or thing which would authorize or require the charge of a higher rate of postage thereon: and when any such are found, he will charge each article composing the package, or contained therein, with letter postage; and if the person to whom the package is addressed shall refuse to pay letter postage thereon, he will immediately enclose the package to the postmaster from whose office it came, and request him to prosecute for the penalty of five dollars, imposed by law upon the person who placed it in the office.—Act of 1825, section 30, and act of March 3, 1851, section 2.

N. B. All letters to and from Foreign Countries (the British North American provinces excepted) are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of half an ounce; double rate, if exceeding half an ounce, but not exceeding an ounce; quadruple rate, if exceeding an ounce, but not exceeding two ounces, and so on, charging two rates for every ounce or fractional part of an ounce, over the first ounce.

SEC. 147. Newspapers.—Between the United States and Great Britain, the United States postage on each newspaper is two cents, which must be collected whether the paper is sent or received. In like manner, the British office collects its portion, also, of two cents per newspaper. Thus, though such paper comes, as it should do, marked "paid," there is still the United States postage of two cents to be collected of the receiver. If the newspaper, however, has passed, or is to pass, in transit through Great Britain from or to some other foreign country, then the sum, in each instance, to be collected here, is four cents—two United States and two British.

SEC. 148. Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narrow bands, open at the sides or end; otherwise they are chargeable there with letter postage.

SEC. 149. Periodicals.—Periodical works and pamphlets are not entitled to transit conveyance through the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, but they may be sent from the United States to the United Kingdom, and vice versa, at two cents of United States postage each, if they do not exceed two ounces in weight; and at four cents per ounce, or fraction of an ounce; when they exceed that weight, to be collected in all cases in the United States; and the same will be subject to an additional like charge in the United Kingdom. Under the postal treaty with Great Britain, however, no pamphlet can be sent exceeding eight ounces in weight, and no periodical weighing over sixteen ounces. When sent to, or received from foreign countries, without passing through the United Kingdom, they will be chargeable with the regular United States rates, to be prepaid when sent, and collected when received; and the weight, according to act of Congress of 3d March, 1851, must not exceed thirty-two ounces.

SEC. 150. Dead Matter.—All British and foreign letters, and all foreign newspapers remaining on hand, refused or not called for, are to be returned by the postmasters, as dead letters and newspapers, to the General Post Office, under address to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, separately from all other letters. This is necessary to enable the United States post office to reclaim the amount with which it stands debited upon each letter and newspaper.

SEC. 151. Directions to the Exchange Offices, under the United States and British Postal Treaty, how to postmark.—The exchange offices of the two countries, in mailing to each other, are to postmark the letter, not with the entire postage, but with the credit and debit portions of it only; if a paid letter, with the credit amount in favor of the other country, in red ink, and with a "paid" stamp in same color; if unpaid, with the debit amount against the other country, in black ink. But before the exchange office receiving such letter, delivers it, or mails it to the interior, it is to re-stamp the letter with its own office stamp, in all cases, and with the "paid" stamp in red ink, if paid; if unpaid, with the amount, in black, of the entire postage to be collected.

NOTE.—California and Oregon, as parts of the United States, are embraced in the table of domestic postages. Letters to any places therein, (the distance being over 3,000 miles) are six cents prepaid per rate, and ten cents unpaid. On newspapers and other printed matter, the domestic rates also apply.

But to Chagres and Panama (foreign) the letter postage must be rated under that clause in the law specifying letters to be "conveyed wholly or in part by sea, and to or from a foreign country." The single-letter postage to Chagres, Panama, and other such places, is ten cents, if the distance from the mailing office is under 2,500 miles, and twenty cents if the distance is over 2,500 miles; in both cases to be prepaid when the letter is sent from, and collected when received in, the United States. To either of these places, from New York, the distance exceeds 2,500 miles; from all the southern ports the distance is less than 2,500 miles.

Ship Letters.—Letters sent from the United States to foreign countries by private vessels, are chargeable with inland postage, which must be prepaid from the mailing office to the port of sailing. The Postmaster of San Francisco is specially instructed to make up and despatch such mails to the Sandwich Islands, China and New South Wales.

CHAPTER 19.

Delivery of Letters.

SEC. 152. The persons entitled to letters received by mail, are those whose names are in the address.

SEC. 153. The delivery should be either to the person addressed, or according to his order. The order is, in some cases, implied, as where a person is in the habit of receiving his letters through his son, clerk, or servant, and of recognizing the delivery to him.

SEC. 154. If a letter appear to be of value, it will be safest to require a written order for its delivery to the person calling, if he be not the person addressed.

SEC. 155. A letter addressed to a firm, may be delivered to any member of the firm; if addressed to several persons, it may be delivered to any one of them.

SEC. 156. If there be two or more persons of the same name, and a letter intended for one is delivered to another, the postmaster will reseal the letter in the presence of the person who opened it, and request him to write upon it the words, "Opened by me through mistake," and sign his name; he will then refund the postage paid, and replace the letter in the office.

CHAPTER 20.

Masters of Steamboats to deliver Letters and Packages into Post Offices.

SEC. 157. The masters of steamboats under contract with the Department, will deliver into the post offices, (or to the local agent of the Department, if there be any,) at the places at which they arrive, all letters received by them, or by any person employed in their boats, at any point along the route.

SEC. 158. Masters or managers of all other steamboats, are required by law, under a penalty of thirty dollars, to deliver all letters brought by them, or within their care or power, addressed to, or destined for, the places at which they arrive, to the postmasters at such places: except letters relating to some part of the cargo. All letters not addressed to persons to whom the cargo, or any part of it, is consigned, are therefore to be delivered into the post office, to be charged with postage.—See act of 1825, secs. 6 and 19.

SEC. 159. All letters conveyed by steamboats, packets, or other vessels, relating to the cargo, must be left unsealed; and if sealed, must be delivered into the post office and charged with postage; but if upon being opened in the presence of the postmaster, and found to relate to the cargo, the postage may be remitted. The law relating to this subject is often violated. Postmasters will use diligence to correct the evil, and prosecute for the penalty, in every case where they can obtain testimony.

CHAPTER 21.

Masters of every Vessel from a Foreign Port, to deliver Letters and Packets into Post Offices.

SEC. 160. The terms, ship letters and packets, embrace the letters and packets brought into the United States, from foreign countries, or carried from one port in the United States to another, in any private ship or vessel, before such letters have been mailed.

SEC. 161. Every master of a vessel from a foreign port is bound, immediately on his arrival at a port, and before he can report, make entry, or break bulk, under a penalty not to exceed $100, to deliver into the post office all letters brought in his vessel, directed to any person in the United States, or the Territories thereof, which are under his care or within his power, except such letters as relate to the cargo or some part thereof.

SEC. 162. It is the special duty of the postmaster at a port where vessels may enter, to see that this law is strictly observed and enforced.

SEC. 163. Every such postmaster will obtain from the master of the ship or vessel, a certificate, specifying the number of letters, with the name of the ship or vessel, and place from which she last sailed, and upon each letter which has not been before mailed, and which shall be delivered into his office for mailing, he shall pay to the said master or owner two cents, and take his receipt therefor, except at the ports on Lake Erie, where one cent will be paid.

CHAPTER 22.

Letters missent and to be forwarded.

SEC. 164. In forwarding letters by mail, postmasters will, in all cases, be governed by the address. If, contrary to its address, a letter be missent, no additional postage is to be charged for forwarding, unless the postage to its proper destination be deficient. But if the letter has been sent according to its address, and is forwarded at the request of the party addressed, or the known writer thereof, or otherwise, additional postage to the place of its destination is to be charged, and the two postages entered in a new post-bill.

SEC. 165. In every case of a letter forwarded, the original postage should be noted on the bill with which the letter was received, if it can be found; if not, upon some other post bill; and it should be entered on the proper line of the Account of mails received, in the column headed overcharged, and the word "forwarded," with the date, written immediately after it.

SEC. 166. Orders to forward letters should be in writing, and filed by postmasters.

CHAPTER 23.

Return of Letters.

SEC. 167. To prevent fraud, the postmaster will be careful not to return any letter put into his office for transmission by mail, unless to the writer thereof, or some one presenting his written order.

SEC. 168. And to enable him to know that the person applying for the return of a letter is the writer, he may require him, or his messenger, to exhibit to him the same superscription and seal that are upon the letter. And if the postmaster is satisfied that the handwriting and seal are the same, he will return the letter; taking a receipt and preserving it with the paper containing the superscription, and the order, if one were sent.

SEC. 169. A letter bearing the frank of an individual may be returned to him, or his order.

CHAPTER 24.

Advertising Letters.

SEC. 170. The following Rules and Regulations for advertising uncalled-for letters, under the provisions of the 5th section of the act of the 3d of March, 1851, will be observed.

1. When the gross receipts of the Post Office for the then next preceding quarter shall not have exceeded $500, the Postmaster shall advertise such uncalled-for letters once in six weeks only: when such gross receipts shall have exceeded $500, and have not exceeded $1,000, the Postmaster shall advertise once a month only: when such gross receipts shall have exceeded $1,000, and shall not have exceeded $7,500, the postmaster shall advertise twice a month: and when such gross receipts shall have exceeded $7,500, the postmaster shall advertise once a week.

2. Such advertisements are to be inserted in one newspaper only, which must be printed in the city, town, or village in which the post office is situated, and must have the largest circulation within the range of delivery of said office of any paper issued weekly or oftener, printed in such city, town, or village. Should the publisher of such paper refuse to give such list of letters one insertion, at one cent for each letter, the postmaster will designate for this service some other paper published in the same place. He is also required to post in a conspicuous place in his office a copy of such list on the day or day after the publication thereof.

3. If there is no newspaper printed in the city, town, or village where the post office is kept, or if the publishers of all the papers so printed shall refuse to advertise the letters for the price above mentioned, then manuscript lists of them are to be made out, and posted at such public places in the town and neighborhood as shall appear best adapted for the information of the parties concerned.

4. Refused letters are not to be advertised, nor those which the postmaster expects will be immediately taken from the office.

5. Drop and box letters, circulars, free packets containing printed documents, speeches, or other printed matter, are not to be advertised.

6. In case of question or dispute, as to the circulation of any paper claiming the advertisement of the uncalled-for letters, it shall be the duty of the postmaster, on the first Monday of January, in each year hereafter, to receive evidence and decide upon the fact; such decision shall remain for one year, unless, for good cause, the Postmaster General shall otherwise order; and the evidence upon which the postmaster decides to give the printing to a particular paper shall always be open to inspection. In all such cases the postmaster shall, at least one week prior to the day of receiving such evidence, fix and define the limits and boundaries of the territory, deemed by him to be embraced within the range of the delivery of his office, by a plain and intelligible written statement, to be signed by him and filed in his office; and of which every person claiming the advertisement shall be entitled to take a copy. Such postmaster shall require, as a part of the evidence on which he is to make his decision, an affidavit of the proprietor or printer of such newspaper, for which the advertisement is claimed, or of the clerk or foreman in the office of such paper, showing his means of knowledge in respect to the circulation of such newspaper within the limits of the district so embraced in the range of the delivery of such office, and stating the average, actual, ordinary and bona fide circulation of each regular issue of such paper within such district, for the four weeks ending on the Saturday next prior to the day on which such evidence is received; and that such circulation has not, during said four weeks, been increased by any gratuitous circulation, by a reduction in price below the ordinary and usual price of such paper, or by any other extraordinary means, for the purpose, in whole or in part, of obtaining any list or lists of uncalled-for letters for publication; and such average, actual, ordinary, and bona fide circulation of each regular issue of such paper for such four weeks, as established by such affidavit and the other evidence submitted to such postmaster, shall be deemed the circulation on which the question of the greater circulation shall be determined. Other evidence, in addition to such affidavit, in corroboration thereof, or in contradiction of the same, may be submitted by any party interested in the decision.

7. When authority for the publication of lists of foreign letters in a newspaper printed in a foreign language is deemed advisable, the postmaster must make a special application for the necessary order to publish in such paper.

8. All orders for publication of these lists of uncalled-for letters in more than one newspaper are vacated and annulled. The present law authorizes a single publication in one paper only.

9. When daily, semi weekly, tri-weekly, or weekly papers are issued from the same office, the proprietor must not be allowed to aggregate the circulation of such papers, but the single circulation of each issue of the particular paper for which he claims the publication. Whether the paper is issued daily, tri-weekly, semi-weekly, or weekly must be shown, and the advertisement inserted in the particular paper which has the largest circulation.

CHAPTER 25.

Lost Letters and Mail Depredations.

SEC. 171. Money and other valuable things, sent in the mail, are at the risk of the owner. But, if they be lost, the Department will make every effort in its power to discover the cause, and, if there has been a theft, to punish the offender.

SEC. 172. In every case of loss by mail, whether supposed to be the result of casualty or of depredation, the Department should be informed without delay, of all the circumstances connected with it. Particular care should be taken to state the name of the office in which the letter was placed, the day on which it was so placed, and whether by the writer himself, or by another person, the day on which, if at all, it was actually mailed, the names of the writer and the person addressed, the amount, and if practicable, a particular description of the valuable enclosure, the amount of postage marked on the letter, and whether paid or unpaid, the office to which addressed, and whether mailed direct thereto, or to another office for distribution, and the route by which it was sent, with any further particulars that may aid the Department in its investigation respecting the cause of loss.

SEC. 173. No reported loss will be investigated by an agent, unless satisfactory evidence is produced, either by the certificate of the postmaster, or some other disinterested individual that the money or other valuable thing was deposited in the post office.

SEC. 174. All necessary expenses that may be incurred in recovering the mail, and in apprehending the robber, will be reimbursed by the Department.

SEC. 175. In some cases it may be proper to offer a reward, not to exceed fifty dollars, payable on conviction, for the apprehension of the criminal.

SEC. 176. In every case when the criminal is apprehended, the Attorney of the United States for the district in which the offence was committed, should be promptly informed of the facts, and his advice obtained.

SEC. 177. If the prosecution be had before the Federal Court for the District, as it should be in all cases, and must be when State officers refuse to act, the Attorney of the United States will conduct it.

SEC. 178. Persons arrested for mail depredations should in all cases when it is practicable, be taken before a district, or circuit judge, or a commissioner of the United States, for examination and commitment.

SEC. 179. In every case it is expected that postmasters will spare no exertions to have justice done, and the guilty punished, by procuring testimony, and giving the prosecution every other aid in their power.

SEC. 180. Cases of mail robbery should be at once reported to the Department, and information given from time to time, of what further transpires respecting them.

SEC. 181. At all large offices at which daily mails from other large offices are received, care should be take to note the fact, if the usual mail from any of those offices fail for any given day, to arrive, and if subsequent mails arrive, leaving that for a preceding day still due, the mailing office should immediately be written to for information, whether such mail as that supposed to be missing, was actually sent; and if the answer be in the affirmative, a report of the loss should, without further delay, be made to the Department.

SEC. 182. If a postmaster has reason to believe that a mail has been robbed or stolen, in the vicinity of his office, he should at once examine into the evidence of the fact; and, if satisfied that such robbery or theft has actually occurred, should take immediate and energetic measures for recovering the mail, and for apprehending and prosecuting the offender.

CHAPTER 26.

Dead Letters.

SEC. 183. Dead letters are such as have been advertised and have remained on hand three months or longer.—See act of March 3, 1825, sec. 26.

But letters refused, or which cannot be delivered, are also to be considered dead letters and forwarded to the Department at the end of each month, without being advertised.

SEC. 184. All letters from foreign countries, including those from the British North American Provinces, should be returned at the expiration of one month after having been duly advertised.

SEC. 185. Letters for foreign countries which cannot be forwarded without pre-payment of postage; letters not addressed or so badly directed that their destination cannot be ascertained, and letters addressed to places where there are no Post Offices, must be returned to the Department monthly with the "refused" and "foreign dead letters."

SEC. 186. At the end of each quarter, all dead letters then on hand, including such as are mentioned in the three preceding sections, and were not returned in the first two months of the quarter, must be forwarded to the Department in the regular quarterly return, with a dead letter bill, showing the whole number then sent, as well as those sent in the two previous months.

SEC. 187. When refused letters, or letters which cannot be delivered, or letters from foreign countries, or any such as are mentioned in section 185, are returned to the Department monthly, the Postmaster should not omit to note on the dead letter bill for the last month of the quarter, the amount of the bills returned for each of the two preceding months, so as to give a complete dead letter bill for the whole quarter, corresponding in amount with the credit claimed for dead letters in his quarterly account current. All dead letter bills are to be made in duplicate, and one of each retained by the Postmaster.

SEC. 188. The dead letter bill should be so made up as to show the number of unpaid letters of each rate,—the number of paid letters of each rate,—the number of drop letters,—the number of unpaid foreign letters and their rates,—the number of paid foreign letters and their rates; and each description of dead letters here mentioned should be carefully put in separate parcels, and the whole tied in one bundle.

SEC. 189. If the dead letters at any office be so numerous as to make it necessary to put them in several bundles, the bundles should be numbered consecutively, beginning with number 1, and the dead letter bills should always be put in the last number which should be marked "Bill."

SEC. 190. No allowance will be made for dead letters returned, unless they are accompanied by a dead letter bill.

SEC. 191. When a letter is refused, the word "refused" should be at once plainly written upon it, and the letter put with those to be returned at the end of the month.

SEC. 192. If previous to its return, the seal of a dead letter be broken by accident, or by having been delivered to the wrong person, the fact and circumstances must be noted upon it.

SEC. 193. Every dead letter must bear on the sealed side the stamp or post-mark of the Post office by which it is returned, and the date of its return to the Department.

SEC. 194. When any letter from this Department, or from any other Department or public office at the seat of Government, is not called for within one month from the time of its receipt, or when the person addressed is known to be dead, or to have moved away, such letter must be returned direct to the Department or public office in which it originated, and should never be sent to the Post Office Department as a dead letter.

SEC. 195. Only the dead letters containing enclosures of value, are required by law to be preserved and returned to their owners; but if the writer of a letter not containing an enclosure of value desire to have his letter preserved, it will be done if he prepay the letter and mark the words "to be preserved," in large characters, on the sealed side. Upon the return of his letter he will be required to pay the postage from Washington.

CHAPTER 27.

Letter Carriers.

SEC. 196. Postmasters are authorized to employ letter carriers. They are to be nominated to and appointed by the Postmaster General, and are required to give bonds to the United States, to be approved by him.—Act of July, 1836, sec. 41.

SEC. 197. When so appointed and qualified, the postmaster may, at his risk and responsibility, place in the hands of the carriers for delivery, all letters received, except such as are for persons who may have lodged with him a written request to retain their letters in the office.—Act of 1825, sec. 36.

SEC. 198. Such carriers may charge and receive two cents for every letter, and a half cent for every newspaper, delivered by them, unless otherwise directed by the Postmaster General.—Act 3d of March, 1851.

CHAPTER 33.

Mail Carriers, Route Agents, Mail Messengers and Local Agents.

SEC. 199. It is the duty of a mail carrier to receive and convey a letter, (and the money for its postage when tendered,) if delivered to him more than a mile from a post office, and to hand it, with the money, if paid, into the first post office at which he arrives. A penalty of $50 attaches on failure to do so.

SEC. 200. On the letters brought by a mail carrier to be mailed, called way letters, one cent is to be charged, in addition to the usual postage, which is to be rated from the place where the carrier received the letter. It is to be marked "Way," and one cent paid to the carrier.

SEC. 201. On Railroad and Steamboat routes, it is the duty of Route agents—1st. To receive letters written after the mail has closed, and way letters unpaid or pre-paid by stamps; to mail and post bill said letters, and direct them to the proper office for delivery or distribution, and to report a list of all such letters to the contract office. 2d. To assort the mails for the several offices, being entrusted with the key to the iron lock for that purpose. 3d. To attend to the delivery and reception of mail bags. 4th. To report to the Inspection Office all irregularities of service on the route, especially every instance in which they fail to receive or deliver a mail where one is due, with the cause of such failure—which, if not known, must be ascertained by inquiry.

SEC. 202. In connection with the same class of Routes, Mail-messengers, in certain cases, are appointed to carry the mail to and from Post Offices, when such offices are more than eighty rods from the steamboat landing, or railroad station.

SEC. 203. On the Ohio river from and below Louisville, and on the Mississippi and Red river, the conveyance of the mail is engaged by the trip. Local agents assigned to that duty are stationed at Louisville, St. Louis, and New Orleans. The evidence of the agreement is reported to the Contract Office. The mail bill, executed by the agent and captain, and the certificates of the postmasters of the receipt of the mails upon the duplicate of the bill, upon which the captain obtains payment for the service, are sent to the Inspection Office as proof of performance, and by that office to the Auditor, to obtain the proper credit for the Postmaster.

SEC. 204. Route agents, mail messengers and local agents must take the usual oaths of office and transmit them to the Inspection Office. They are thereupon exempt as mail carriers, from militia and jury duty.

SEC. 205. Mail carriers, contractors or stage drivers cannot lawfully carry out of the mail, any letter or packet; but are permitted so to carry newspapers for sale or distribution to subscribers, and also pamphlets, magazines and periodicals when not marked or directed, nor intended for immediate distribution to subscribers or others, but intended for sale as merchandize and sent to some bona fide dealer or agent for the sale thereof.

CHAPTER 28.

Newspapers, Pamphlets and Magazines.

SEC. 206. Printers of newspapers are required before delivering their papers into any office for transmission, to have them placed under substantial bands or wrappers in separate packages of not more than twenty papers each : to write distinctly upon each package the name of the office to which it is to be sent, its county and State, and the same direction upon one of the papers therein.—Every package not properly directed is to be returned to the printer.

SEC. 207. A Postmaster will not suffer any package to be opened which is not addressed to his office, nor any addressed to his office to be opened by persons not duly authorized.

SEC. 208. If newspapers are carried out of the mail for sale or distribution, postmasters are not bound to receive and deliver them. Pamphlets and magazines for immediate distribution to subscribers cannot be so carried without a violation of the law of Congress.

SEC. 209. The wrappers on newspapers, pamphlets, magazines and other printed matter must be removed before their delivery, except in the case of such as are duly and properly franked. The wrappers form no part of the matter for which postage is charged, and are to be carefully examined to see that nothing subject to letter postage has been fraudulently concealed.—Act of 3d March, 1851.

SEC. 210. Postmasters will not suffer newspapers to be read in their offices by persons to whom they are not addressed ; nor to be lent out in any case, without permission of the owners.

SEC. 211. If newspapers are not taken out of the office by the person to whom they are addressed, the postmaster will give immediate notice to the publishers, and of the cause thereof if known.

If sent for three months after notice, the paper may be sold for postage. The like notice will be given in respect to pamphlets and magazines published periodically, which are to be returned to the publisher if desired, and delivered to him upon payment of the postages forward and back ; but the notices in both cases are to be franked.

SEC. 212. The commissions on newspaper postage belong to the postmaster who collects it, though he may immediately go out of office and the papers be delivered by his successor.

CHAPTER 29.

Account of Newspapers.

SEC. 213. Every postmaster will keep—

1. An account in which he will enter at the beginning of the quarter, or on first receiving any particular paper, all newspapers by name that are to come regularly to his office, except such weekly papers as are free, and in the proper column opposite each paper, the amount of postage thereon for the quarter. This postage is to be collected in advance. In the same account and in the same manner he will enter all periodicals regularly received and which have not been prepaid at the mailing office. At the end of the quarter he will correct this account, 1st, by adding to it all the extras, supplements and duplicates of said papers which have been received ; and 2d, by deducting the amount he may have refunded for papers which failed to arrive.

2. An account in the form prescribed by the Department, of all pointed matter other than that embraced in the above account, and on which the postage was payable at his office. This account will therefore include the amount of postage (required to be prepaid) on each and every transient newspaper, unsealed circular, handbill, engraving, pamphlet, periodical, magazine, book and every other description of printed matter mailed at his office, except newspapers for actual and bona fide subscribers, and periodicals published at intervals of not more than three months. It will also include the postage on any such matter deliverable at his office, which through inattention of the postmaster or otherwise, may not have been prepaid at the mailing office, and the postage on every description of printed matter mailed or received at his office to or from foreign countries.

From the danger of omissions in an account of items so small and various, postmasters are especially cautioned to make their entries daily or oftener, and to follow the forms prescribed by the Department, which are intended to secure the Department from loss of the full amount of postage upon the vast quantity of this description of matter passing through the mails.

CHAPTER 30.

The Franking Privilege.

SEC. 214. The right to send and receive letters and packets through the mail, free of postage, is held either as a personal privilege, or as an official trust for the maintenance of official correspondence. In both its forms, the right varies in respect to different classes of officers and individuals, in the kind as well as weight of matters which may be so sent or received. An interchange between publishers of pamphlets, periodicals, magazines and newspapers, of their respective publications, is allowed for the purpose of promoting the dissemination of that kind of information of which they are the vehicles.

SEC. 215. The following officers and persons enjoy the right as a personal privilege, subject in the case of some of them, to the several restrictions stated and annexed.

1. The President of the United States; the individuals who at former periods have filled the office of President; Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Polk and Mrs. Taylor, relicts of former Presidents.

2. Members of Congress and delegates from Territories, during their term of office, and until the 1st Monday of December, after its expiration—Restricted to letters and packets not exceeding two ounces in weight, and public documents. Public documents are those printed by the order of either House of Congress, and publications and books procured or purchased by Congress, or either House for the use of the Members.

3. The Vice President, the Secretary of the Senate, the clerk of the House of Representatives, during their official terms—Restricted as Members of Congress and Delegates.

4. Every postmaster whose commissions for the previous fiscal year, ending 30th June, did not exceed $200—Restricted to sending letters written by himself on his private business, and receiving written communications addressed to himself on his private business; such letters or written communications not to exceed half an ounce in weight. He cannot, therefore, receive or send free any description of printed matter. He cannot frank or receive free letters written by or addressed to his wife or any other member of his family, or by or to a firm of which he is a member. Neither is he authorized to frank letters containing money or other things, nor letters written by himself on the business of others.

SEC. 216. By the following officers, the privilege is held in trust for the maintenance of correspondence required in the performance of official duty. The act of 3d March, 1847, having made an appropriation in "compensation for such mail services as may be performed for the several departments of the Government," that provision has been construed as extending the right, so far as official correspondence is concerned, to all officers of the Departments who enjoyed it prior to the act of 3d March, 1845, and to those of like grade since provided for in the act establishing the Department of the Interior. The following are the officers of this class:

5. The Secretaries of the Departments, Postmaster General and Attorney General of the United States; the 1st and 2d Comptrollers of the Treasury; the Solicitor of the Treasury; the Auditors of the Treasury; the Treasurer of the United States; the Register of the Treasury; the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; the Commissioner of the General Land Office; the Commissioner of Customs; the Commissioner of Patents; the Commissioner of Indian Affairs; the Commissioner of Pensions; the Assistant Postmasters General; the Adjutant General of the Army; the Quarter Master General; the Inspector General; the Commissary General of Subsistence; the Paymaster General; the Chief Engineer; the Surgeon General; the Colonel of Ordnance; the Chiefs of Bureaus of the Navy Department—Restricted to letters and packets relating to their official duties, those sent to be marked or stamped "official business," and this declaration to be subscribed by the officer with a designation of his office. In the case of the heads of departments alone, this declaration may be subscribed under their direction by their respective Chief Clerks.

6. The Governors of States to the Governors of other States:—Restricted to laws and reports, bound or unbound, records and documents of the State, which the Legislature thereof may direct to be sent to the Executive of other States.

NOTE.—The Governor is to mark on the packet the kind of books or documents inclosed, and subscribe this declaration with a designation of his office.

7. All Postmasters, whether their commissions exceed or fall short of $200 per annum—Restricted to letters and packets relating exclusively to the business of their offices or of the Post Office Department.

NOTE. They must be marked "Post Office business," and this declaration subscribed by the Postmaster himself, with a designation of his office.

8. Publishers of pamphlets, periodicals, magazines and newspapers not exceeding sixteen ounces in weight, may exchange their publications reciprocally free, and may send their bills for subscriptions to their publications enclosed in them without additional postage—Restricted to one copy each of each publication.

SEC. 217. It is the practice of many to address their hand bills and newspapers in the nature of circulars or hand bills to postmasters, by which means they give them an extensive circulation, free of postage. This is an abuse which must be corrected. In every instance where a postmaster receives a communication, addressed to him as postmaster, which is of a private character, and designed to promote private interests, with an evident intention of giving circulation to it, without paying postage, he will return the same to the person who sent it, under a new envelope, with the charge of letter postage endorsed.

SEC. 218. If the name of the individual franking a letter be known as the handwriting of a person entitled to frank, the letter may be regarded as free, although the style of his office be omitted.

SEC. 219. Postmasters are particularly referred to the provisions of the 28th section of the act of 1825, and the 36th section of the act of 2d July, 1836, relating to the abuses of the franking privilege. A violation of law in this respect should be reported to the Department, and, when sufficient evidence can be obtained, a prosecution for the penalty should be instituted by the postmaster.

SEC. 220. Penalties attach, whenever a person franks a letter from another, unless written on the business of his office, by his order.

SEC. 221. A penalty of three hundred dollars attaches to the Assistant Postmasters General and postmasters, for every false endorsement of a letter or packet.

SEC. 222. If any person shall frank any letter or letters, other than those written by himself, or by his order on the business of his office, he shall, on conviction thereof, pay a fine of ten dollars.—Act of July 2d, 1836.

SEC. 223. In prosecuting for the penalties, postmasters will obtain the aid of the District Attorney of the United States, and for that purpose, report to him the circumstances, and the name of the witnesses in each case; and they will cause the proceedings to be instituted in the District Court of the United States, not only against those who abuse their frank, but also against those who procure it to be done.

SEC. 224. It is only because the letter is actually, or by construction of law, from the person authorized to send it free, that it is exempted from postage. The frank is merely the certificate of the fact that it is so. When, therefore, the circumstances connected with the letter are such as to show that it is not from such a person, and that the frank on it is in effect, a false certificate, postmasters will, in such cases, charge the letter with postage. If, however, after the postage shall have been charged and paid on such letter, it shall be ascertained by the postmaster that the letter franked was from the person franking it, the postage shall be refunded, and the proper corrections of the bills be made.

SEC. 225. If any person, having the right to receive his letters free of postage, shall receive, enclosed to him, any letter or packet addressed to a person not having that right, it shall be his duty to return the same to the post office, marking thereon the place from whence it came, that it may be charged with postage.—Act of 1825, sec. 28.

SEC. 226. If any person shall counterfeit the hand writing or frank of any person, or cause the same to be done, in order to avoid the payment of postage, each person so offending shall pay, for every such offence, five hundred dollars.—Act of 1825, sec. 28.

SEC. 227. No postmaster or other privileged person can authorize his assistant, clerk, or any other person to write his name for the purpose of franking any letter, public or private.

SEC. 228. The personal privilege of franking travels with the person possessing it, and can be exercised in but one place at the same time.

SEC. 229. No postmaster or privileged person can leave his frank behind him upon envelopes to cover his correspondence in his absence.

SEC. 230. If letters or papers be put into a post office bearing the frank of a privileged person who notoriously has not been in that vicinity for several days; or if letters or papers marked free, be received at an office, directed to a privileged person but notoriously intended to be received by some person not privileged, whether acting as the agent of the privileged person, or not, it is the duty of the postmasters to charge them with postage.

SEC. 231. If any letter to or from a privileged person, be put into, or received at a post office, of greater weight than such person has a right by law to frank, the postmaster will charge the excess with letter postage.

SEC. 232. One half of the penalties collected for the violations of the franking privilege, go to the prosecutor, and the other half to the United States, and are to be paid over, and accounted for, to the Postmaster General. They may be sued for before the circuit and district courts of the United States.

CHAPTER 31.

Accounts and Returns of Postmasters.

SEC. 233. At the end of every quarter, which is on the last day of March, June, September, and December, every postmaster must make up his accounts, and forward transcripts of them to the 3d Assistant Postmaster General. The originals must be filed by him with his general account, and will, like it, be held subject to inspection as provided in Chapter 35, section 255.

SEC. 234. In case of death, resignation or removal of a postmaster, or the discontinuance of an office; or in case of the giving of a new official bond in consequence of a change in the name of an office, the expiration of the term for which the postmaster may have been appointed, or otherwise, the accounts must be made up to the day, (though it be not the end of a quarter,) in which the office ceases to operate, or the new appointment, or the new bond, as the case may be, takes effect.

SEC. 235. Many postmasters have been in the habit of forwarding to the department contrary to regulation, their original accounts, keeping no duplicate or copy. This violation of rule cannot be permitted or overlooked. Transcripts or copies only must be sent, and the original accounts must be carefully preserved for inspection by any agent of the Department who may require it.

SEC. 236. The quarterly account current must be signed by the postmaster himself, unless necessarily absent or sick, in which case it may be signed as follows:

A—— B——, P. M.
by C—— D——, ass't P. M.

The blank heading of each page is to be filled up with the name of the office, its County, District or Parish, and State.

SEC. 237. The accounts of all postmasters are examined and adjusted by the Auditor as they are received, and the errors, if there be any, are carefully corrected, and the postmaster notified of such as increase by as much as fifty cents, the balance due to the United States.

SEC. 238. Postmasters, therefore, will understand that any alteration in the balances of their accounts is occasioned either by the correction of some numerical error, or by some deviation, on their part, from a strict conformity to the law, and these instructions.

CHAPTER 32.

Failure to Return Quarterly Accounts—Penalties.

SEC. 239. If any postmaster shall neglect to render his accounts for one month after the time and in the form and manner prescribed by law, and by the Postmaster General's instructions, he shall forfeit double the value of postages which shall have arisen at his office.—See sec. 32, Act of 1825.

SEC. 240. The postmaster, though he may have mailed his accounts, will not be considered as discharged from the penalty mentioned in section 239, unless within one month, after being notified that they have not been received at the Department, he transmits duplicate transcripts from the original accounts retained in his possession.

CHAPTER 33.

Papers and Accounts to be Returned to the Post Office Department, by Postmasters.

SEC. 241. The Quarterly Return is composed of the following accounts and papers, viz:

1. A transcript of the Account of mails sent from the office for the quarter. The entries in this account must, of course, be made every post day, before the mail is sent from the office, and at all large offices, it should be transcribed daily.

2. A transcript of the Account of mails received at the office for the quarter. At all large offices, the entries in this account should be made daily, and it should be transcribed daily, so as to prevent any delay in making it out at the close of the quarter.

3. A transcript of the Account of regular Newspapers and Pam- phlets received at the office during the quarter, to which is to be added the amount of the Miscellaneous account as described in Chapter 29.

4. From the post offices where such accounts should be kept, a transcript of the Account of Ship and Steamboat Letters received in the quarter, and the moneys paid for them.

5. A transcript of the Account of Letters sent by sea from the offices at sea ports.

6. All the post bills received from other offices during the quarter.

7. Accounts and receipts for contingent expenses.

8. The Dead letters, and a bill or bills of them.

9. From Distributing offices, a transcript of the Account of mails received for Distribution.

10. The Account current.

SEC. 242. Postmasters are strictly required to fill the blanks at the head of each page of their accounts of mails received and sent, and carefully to add each and every column of said accounts.— They will then recapitulate the amount of each column on a blank page, so as to enable the Auditor to report quarterly the aggregate amount of such columns.

SEC. 243. The commission account and the emolument account, with the vouchers belonging to them—must also accompany the quarterly account of all postmasters whose duty it is to render such accounts.

SEC. 244. To ensure a correct and expeditious settlement of the quarterly accounts of postmasters, it is indispensable that each return should arrive at the Department in one perfect, unbroken bundle or packet. Each postmaster, therefore, should observe the following directions in packing up his return for transmission in the mail, viz :

SEC. 245. Put up each part of the return if large, in a separate parcel, with strong paper, tying it with twine, and writing on each parcel its proper contents, and the name of the office, county, and State. Then pack up all the parcels, constituting the entire quarterly return, in one compact bundle or packet, and having postmarked it, direct it plainly to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Post Office Department.

SEC. 246. No letter, receipt, paper, or other thing whatever, not strictly belonging to the quarterly return, as enumerated and described in this chapter, should be put up in it.

CHAPTER 34.

The Account Current.

SEC. 247. The Account Current is numbered to consist of 29 articles:—

In article 1 every postmaster will make himself debtor for the whole amount of postage on the unpaid letters which remained on hand at the close of the preceding quarter.

In article 2 every postmaster will make himself debtor for the whole amount of the postage on all unpaid letters. This article he will find in the first column of mails received from other offices.—See chap. 10, sec. 90.

In article 3 every postmaster will make himself a debtor for the amount of postage on the way-letters received at his office, for delivery; this he will find in the second column of his Account of mails received.—See chapter 16.

In article 4 every postmaster will next debit himself with the amount of postage undercharged. This amount he will find in the third column of his Account of mails received.—See chapter 10, section 91.

In articles 5 and 6 every postmaster will next debit himself with the number and amount of ship and steamboat letters received for delivery. This article he will find in the first column of his Account of Ship and Steamboat Letters.—See chapter 15.

In article 7 every postmaster will debit himself with the amount of postage paid in money on letters sent from his office. This amount he will find in the third column of mails sent.—See chapter 8, section 71.

Every Postmaster of a distributing post-office will next debit himself with the amount (if any,) of letters for delivery received at his office in distribution bills.

In article 8 every Postmaster will debit himself with the amount of postage on drop letters. This amount he will find in the eighth column of mails received.

In article 9, every postmaster will debit himself with the whole amount he has paid during the quarter for advertising letters, and credited as contingent expenses in article 27. This debit and credit operate merely as counter entries. He will mark the cost of advertising on each letter advertised. Upon every letter delivered, he will collect this cost in addition to the postage, and upon those remaining, sent as dead letters to the Department, he will charge it, and will thus be exactly reimbursed.

In article 10, every postmaster will next credit himself with the amount of postage on letters which have been missent to and forwarded from his office, and the amount overcharged on letters received at his office. This amount he will find in the fourth column of his account of mails received. He will find further observations on this subject in Chap. 10, section 87.

In article 11, every postmaster will credit himself with the amount of postage on unpaid dead letters remaining in his office at the end of the quarter, and on letters refused or which could not be delivered. This credit will include the cost of advertising any letters returned, and its amount will be the aggregate amount of the bill then to be made out, and of bills sent at the end of each of the two previous months of the quarter, of which he has retained duplicates as directed in chapter 26.

In article 12 the amount of postage of unpaid letters on hand at the close of the quarter is now to be entered to his credit. This is a temporary credit, given because the postmaster is already charged with the amount in the debit part of this account. The exact sum of this temporary credit must be entered to his debit in the first article of his next account, whether any of the letters be delivered out or be returned as dead letters or otherwise.

Having added together the sums of the first nine mentioned articles and placed the amount at the foot of the column, and at the foot of the column in the same line opposite, he will then deduct the sum of the articles 10, 11 and 12 from this amount, and the balance will be the amount of letter postage collected by him this quarter.

The balance which has been placed on the credit side of the account as article 13, is now to be entered to his debit as article 14.

In article 15, every Postmaster will next debit himself with the whole amount of postage on the regular newspapers and periodicals which he has received from other offices during the quarter, agreeably to the account thereof described in chapter 29, with the addition of the amount of postages on transient and miscellaneous newspapers and other printed matter, as described in the same chapter.

In article 16, every postmaster will deduct, if entered in the account, the amount of postage on such newspapers as have continued during the quarter to come to the office, after he has given the publishers three months' notice that they are not taken out, agreeably to chapter 28, section 211. He will sell such newspapers, and in article 17, he will charge himself with the amount received therefor.

Postmasters will next add the amount of postages collected on letters and newspapers, represented by articles 14 and 15, and place the amount at the foot of the column, and also at the foot of the column in the same line, opposite.

If the Postmaster has received stamps direct from the Department, or from his predecessor, he will include the balance resulting from articles 18, 19 and 20 in this addition. No other postmasters will have occasion to use these articles.

In article 21 each Postmaster will credit himself with the amount of mail registers returned by him during the quarter.

In article 22, comprehending five different rates, every Postmaster will next cast his commission on the amount of postage collected on letters during the quarter, including the amount prepaid by stamps, to be found in the second column of mails sent. The rate of commissions are recited in chapter 39.

In articles 23 and 24 every postmaster will next cast his commission on the amount of postage collected on newspapers and other printed matter, including the postage on such printed matter prepaid at his office by stamps, at 50 per cent., and enter it in this place.

In article 25, if the commission on letters, newspapers and other printed matter does not exceed $500 in one quarter, the Postmaster will then set down the number of free letters received by mail for delivery at the office, and carry the amount, at two cents each, to his credit. This number he will find in the ninth column of his Account of mails received.

In article 26, the postmaster will next set down the number of ship and steamboat letters which he has paid for this quarter, and enter the amount of such payment. These sums he will find in the second and third columns of his Account of Ship and Steamboat letters received.

In article 27, the postmaster will next state the number, and credit himself with the amount paid the mail carrier for way letters. No form is prescribed for keeping this account.—See chapter 16.

In article 28, it now remains for the Postmaster to make out his account of Contingent Expenses, if any. Postmasters are required to preserve and use the wrappers and twine which come into their offices upon letters and packets received, as far as they can be again safely used. The articles which may be charged as contingent expenses are, advertising letters and repairs of mail bags. Neither clerk hire, rent, fuel, lights, nor any other article than those before mentioned, can be allowed by the Department as contingent expenses, nor will any allowance under the head of furniture be made for a desk or letter case for any office, the net postages of which do not amount to $20 a year.

In the case of a letter received which relates exclusively to the business of the office or the Post Office Department, and is yet rated with postage, the Postmaster is authorized to credit himself with the postage thereon, in article 29, but must return to the Department the original letter as a voucher.

SEC. 248. The postmaster will now strike the balance of the account which should show how much he is indebted to the Department for postages for the given quarter.

SEC. 249. As this Account Current is intended to show the net proceeds of the office for the quarter, no balance due on a former quarter, nor any payment to, or collection for, the Department is to be inserted in it. All vouchers for expenses charged in the quarterly account, or in the Commission or Emolument account, must be transmitted with the said accounts; and if for advertising letters, must state the number of letters. Unreasonable delay not only implies neglect of the public business, but is calculated to bring suspicion upon the claims withheld; and the Department, therefore, reserves to itself the right to reject all such claims made after the quarterly accounts have been adjusted.

SEC. 250. Postmasters who are allowed to charge, among the contingent expenses, advertisements of the arrivals and departures of the mails, will limit such charge to an advertisement of three weeks only—once each week.

SEC. 251. Besides the printer's account, and receipt for advertising letters, the newspaper containing the advertisement must be transmitted therewith.

CHAPTER 35.

General Account.

SEC. 252. Every postmaster will keep in his office a General or Leger Account with the United States, for the service of the Post Office Department, subject to the inspection of the Postmaster General, or of any general or special agent of the Department, and a copy of which is to be furnished to the Auditor, from time to time, when required.

SEC. 253. In the general account, every postmaster will credit the United States with the balances due on his quarterly returns as acknowledged, and when notified by the Auditor of any corrections made on examination thereof, he will make the corresponding corrections in the general account, or enter the proper credit therefor.

SEC. 254. The postmaster will likewise credit all sums collected by, or deposited with him, on account of the Department, and will debit the account with all sums paid over for the general service of the Department, whether by deposite, upon draft, or upon collection order. A draft office may be required to deposite, or to pay on a collection order, or a collection office to deposite or to pay on a draft.

SEC. 255. The duplicate quarterly accounts, the duplicate certificates of deposite, the duplicate collection orders and the drafts paid, and also all instructions are to be filed as vouchers with this account, and be subject to inspection.

SEC. 256. The postmaster, upon being furnished with a statement of his general account as kept by the Auditor, will immediately compare it with his account as kept by himself, and at once acknowledge to the Auditor the balance appearing on such statement, or point out the particulars wherein the accounts disagree.

CHAPTER 36.

Collection of Debts.

SEC. 257. The collection of debts due to the Post Office Department, whether by postmasters, contractors, or other persons, is assigned by the act of July, 1836, to the Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department.

SEC. 258. When such debts, if collected, would over-pay the contractor for the route, on or near which the debtor resides, or when for other reasons, the Auditor finds it more convenient to employ a postmaster in the vicinity, the latter will consider himself as a special agent of the Department for this purpose, and will obey such orders as he may receive from the Auditor in respect to such collection. If the debt is collected, the postmaster will give notice to the Auditor, by transmitting his receipt for its amount, and will credit the same in his general account with the United States, for the service of the Post Office Department.

SEC. 259. If the exertions of the postmaster to collect prove unavailing, he will communicate to the Auditor the causes of the failure, and also the pecuniary circumstances of the parties, if alive, or of their estates, and the name of their administrators, if dead.

SEC. 260. If due diligence be not used in making the collection, or if, being unsuccessful, any postmaster fail to return the draft or demand to the Auditor, or otherwise to give notice of such failure, or fail to give any information required in relation to the same, such neglect and want of fidelity will amount to a breach of the condition of his bond for which the damages will be recoverable; and will moreover be considered just ground of removal from office.

CHAPTER 37.

Paying over money to the use, or for the service of the Post Office Department.

SEC. 261. No moneys are to be paid directly into the Department, neither are any paid out directly by it. The proceeds of postage, therefore, will never be remitted by postmasters to the Department, nor be paid to any of its officers or agents, without due authority from the Postmaster General.

SEC. 262. For the purpose of paying over the funds of the Department, all the Post Offices, except Special Offices, are classed either as Deposit Offices, Draft Offices, or Collection Offices. Offices are transferred from time to time from one to another of these classes, to suit the convenience of the service, and when such changes are necessary, they are notified to the postmasters, respectively, by a circular letter.

SEC. 263. Deposit offices are such as are ordered to place, quarterly or oftener, their funds in deposit in some Depository.

SEC. 264. Draft Offices are those which are ordered to retain their funds in hand, to meet drafts drawn by the Postmaster General, and countersigned by the Auditor of the Post Office Department.

SEC. 265. Collection offices are those which are required to pay over their net proceeds quarterly to the mail contractor named in their special instructions, upon the production by him, from time to time, of the proper orders and receipts sent to him by the Department. In these quarterly payments must be included all moneys received for postage stamps sold.

SEC. 266. Certain postmasters are designated as depositaries of the funds of the offices in their vicinity, and the postmasters at such offices are ordered to deposit quarterly with them.

SEC. 267. A failure, either to deposit according to instructions, or to pay a draft when presented, or to pay over to a contractor, upon the production of the proper collection orders and receipts, will be followed by the removal of the delinquent postmaster from office, unless satisfactorily explained to the Postmaster General.

SEC. 268. Postmasters at draft offices will transmit summary reports to the Department of the moneys received, as they may be directed.

SEC. 269. Want of funds can never be an excuse for failing to pay, or to deposit; as the postmaster is not authorized to give credit for postages, which are regarded as cash in his hands. In like manner he is prohibited from using, loaning, investing, depositing in bank, or exchanging moneys received for postages, on pain of criminal prosecution.—Act of 1841, sec. 2, and act of 6th August, 1846, sec. 16.

SEC. 270. A postmaster cannot refuse to pay a draft or collecting order, because the contractor is indebted to him, nor because there is an unsettled private account between them, nor upon any other pretext; but such refusal is made, by the law, prima facie evidence of embezzlement, subjecting him to punishment.—Act of 1841, sec. 2, and act of 6th August, 1846, sec. 16.

SEC. 271. Every postmaster under orders to place his funds in a depository, will take duplicate certificates of each deposite, signed by the proper officer, one of which should be transmitted to the Third Assistant Postmaster General by the first mail thereafter, as the postmaster will not be entitled to a credit until the reception of the certificate at the Department.

SEC. 272. The deposite should include the whole amount due, whether for postage at the office, or for collections or deposits made with the postmaster on account of the Department or otherwise.

SEC. 273. Postmasters at collection offices must be ready to pay over at the end of each quarter, and will transmit the contractor's receipt by the very first mail after payment is made. Such payments must include the whole amount on hand, whether arising from the postages of the quarter, or any preceding quarters, all errors being corrected—or from moneys collected by, or deposited with the postmaster. The receipts must never be put up with the quarterly return, but should be sent under a separate envelope, addressed to the Auditor, for the Post Office Department.

SEC. 274. Every Postmaster of a "special office," will report to the Postmaster General, at the end of each quarter, the balance in his hands, over and above the sums due the contractor for supplying his office with the mail, in order that the Department may make a proper disposition of such balance.

SEC. 275. Postmasters at "special offices," when under orders to pay their respective contractors, will not only pay promptly, but lose no time in transmitting to the Auditor for the Post Office Department the receipts taken for their quarterly payments.

SEC. 276. All payments to the Department, whether upon drafts, or otherwise, must be in specie; and postmasters, in receiving payment of postages, or other dues to the Department, should always bear in mind that they are bound to pay them over in the legal currency of the United States.

SEC. 277. No allowance can be made to a postmaster for deficiency in weight of money received for postage. Neither can any allowance or remuneration be made for losses by fire, robbery, or theft, nor can compensation be made for collecting or paying over moneys to the Department, not arising from postages at his office.

CHAPTER 38.

Applications for Payment and Renewal of Lost Drafts or Warrants.

SEC. 278. In all cases where application is made for the issue of a duplicate draft or warrant, upon the allegation that the original is lost, every such application must be addressed to the Auditor for the Post Office Department, and must be accompanied by a statement, on oath or affirmation, by the applicant, or the person who is the legal holder thereof, showing the time, place, and all the circumstances attending the loss or destruction of the draft or warrant, with its number, date, and amount; in whose favor it was issued; and if assigned, to whom made payable; together with any other particulars relating to it within the knowledge of the applicant.

SEC. 279. The applicant must also produce a letter or certificate from the officer or person on whom the draft or warrant may have been drawn, showing that it has not been paid—also that payment of the same will not thereafter be made to the owner, or any other person whatever.

SEC. 280. The duplicate, when issued, shall have the same tenor, force, and effect as the original, unless in case of assignment, the assignee of the lost draft produce due authority from the drawee for the issue of the duplicate in his own favor.

CHAPTER 39.

Emoluments of Postmasters.

SEC. 281. The commissions, allowances, and emoluments of postmasters for their compensation and expenses are limited by law.—See Act of 1825, sec. 14; Act of 1842, sec. 2; Act of March 1, 1847; Act of March 3, 1847; Act of May 17, 1848, sec. 1; and Act of March 3, 1851. They are as follows, viz :

1. On the amount of letter postage not exceeding $100 in any one quarter, 40 per cent.

2. On any sum between \$100 and \$400 in any one quarter, 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ per cent.

3. On any sum between $400 and $2,400 in any one quarter, 30 per cent.

4. On any sum over \$2,400 in any one quarter, 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent.

5. On the amount of letters and packets received for distribution at offices designated by the Postmaster General for that purpose, 7 per cent.

6. Two cents for every free letter (those addressed to the postmaster excepted) which he receives by post and delivers; unless his commissions, otherwise, amount to $500 in the same quarter. This allowance is not to be made on speeches and other printed matter which is franked, but on letters only.

7. On all sums arising from the postage on newspapers and other printed matter, 50 per cent.

SEC. 282. For any period less than a quarter, the higher rates of commission will be allowed on such amounts, in lieu of the several amounts limited, as are in due proportion to such period.

SEC. 283. When night service is performed by a postmaster, 10 per cent. additional will be allowed on the first one hundred dollars received in a quarter, or in proportion for a fraction of a quarter provided he transmits with his quarterly return, his certificate, according to the facts, in one or the other of the following forms, viz :—

I certify that my office is at the end of route No. _____, and that by the schedule for said route, the mail is regularly to arrive, and does arrive at the same, between the hours of 9 in the evening and 5 in the morning.

P. M.

185 . }

I certify that my office is an intermediate office on route No. _____, and that by the schedule for said route, allowing for distance, the mail is regularly to arrive, and does arrive at the same, between the hours of 9 in the evening and 5 in the morning.

P. M.

SEC. 284. For every monthly register of the arrival and departure of the mails, which a postmaster may be required to transmit, and which he does transmit to the Department—or for as many weekly registers on routes for which such registers are kept, as embrace the period of a month, ten cents is allowed.—See act of 1825, sec. 14.

SEC. 285. Every postmaster whose commissions and allowances together, as charged in any quarterly account, exceed $500 in amount, will render with such quarterly account, an account to be called the Commission Account—stating on one side, the amount of said commissions and allowances; and on the other, his own compensation for the quarter, as limited by law, and the incidental expenses of his office necessarily and actually incurred for said quarter. The charges for incidental expenses must be accompanied by the proper vouchers and receipts, and must specify distinctly the several objects thereof—as rent, fuel, light, stationary, &c., and the names, ages, sex and rate of compensation and time paid for, of each and every person employed as assistant or clerk. If the amount of the said commissions and allowances fall short of the amount of the said compensation and expenses, the postmaster has no claim on the United States for the deficiency. If the amount exceed such compensation and expenses, the postmaster will add the excess to the balance to be acknowledged by him as due the United States on his quarterly return for the same quarter.—Act of 1825, sec. 41.

SEC. 286. The annual compensation to which postmasters are limited will be computed for the fiscal year commencing the 1st of July, and ending the 30th of June, and in due proportion for any period less than a year.—Act of March 1, 1847.

SEC. 287. The postmaster of New York, Boston, Philadelphia,

Baltimore, New Orleans, and every other city of the Union, will, severally, at the end of each quarter, with his quarterly account, render an account under oath, to be called the Emolument Account, of all other profits or emoluments by him received during said quarter, stating on one side of said account the full amount of profits or emoluments, with the several sources from which they are derived, whether from box rent, branch offices, or otherwise; and on the other side, the expenses incident to the same necessarily and actually incurred, accompanied by the proper vouchers. And after deducting said necessary expenses, the postmaster will add any balance of said account, over and above the rate of two thousand dollars per annum, to the credit of his commission account for the same quarter as mentioned in the preceding section, to be applied to the objects and be subject to the limitations thereof.

CHAPTER 40.

Attention to the Manner of Carrying the Mails.

SEC. 288. Every postmaster will consider himself the agent of the Department, in regard to its affairs in his immediate vicinity, so far as to carefully observe, and promptly report to it, everything tending to affect its interests, efficiency and utility.

SEC. 289. It is especially expected that he will keep a vigilant eye upon the manner in which the mails are carried to and from his office. This is amongst the most important of his duties.

SEC. 290. Postmasters will report every instance in which the mail is brought to his office by a person under the age of sixteen years, or who has not been duly sworn.

SEC. 291. If a mail-carrier, having the mail in charge, become intoxicated, he will instantly dismiss him, employ another at the expense of the contractor, and report the facts to the Department.

SEC. 292. He will report promptly all irregularities of mail-carriers, in charge of the mail, and the causes, when known.

SEC. 293. If the mail arrive without a lock, he will ascertain where the fault is, and report it to the Department.

SEC. 294. If the mail be carried on horseback, he will see that it be covered with an oil-cloth or bearskin: If in a stage, that it be carried in a secure dry boot under the driver's feet, or in the box which constitutes the driver's seat: If in a sulky or other vehicle, he will see that it be well protected from the weather.

SEC. 295. He will also carefully observe how mails are carried by any steamers landing near his office, and will report to the Inspection Office every case in which he finds them exposed on deck, or not secured in some proper place under lock and key.

SEC. 296. When the newspaper mail, on a stage route, is large, and separate from the letter mail, it may be carried in the boot behind the stage, but it must not be exposed to the weather.

SEC. 297. Postmasters will report all instances in which the mails are carried without being secured from the weather, as above directed.

SEC. 298. Contractors are required, in all cases, to carry the entire mail. Postmasters will never permit them to leave any part of it.

SEC. 299. Neither are contractors permitted to leave bags of newspapers and pamphlets at places on their routes. Postmasters will report every case of this kind that may occur.

SEC. 300. When the mail stops over night where there is a post-office, it must be kept in the office.

CHAPTER 41.

Report of the Arrivals and Departures of the Mails to be made by Postmasters.

SEC. 301. Postmasters at the ends of every mail route, and such others as the Postmaster General may direct, will keep registers of the arrival and departure of all mails which are opened at their offices, respectively, setting forth the exact time of each arrival and each departure, and the manner of the conveyance when it varies from the contract, and giving the reasons for every delinquency or failure to arrive at the time prescribed in the schedules, if known to them, or can be ascertained by them on proper inquiry.

SEC. 302. Postmasters at the ends of routes on which the mails are carried less than six times a week, will forward the Register to the Department at the close of every month.

SEC. 303. Postmasters at the ends of all routes on which the mails are carried six times a week or more, will return these Registers at the close of each week, unless otherwise specially directed.

SEC. 304. Whenever the mail is carried by any other person than the contractor or his authorized agent or carrier, the fact is to be noted on the Register.

SEC. 305. Besides these stated tabular reports, postmasters at the ends of routes and also at intermediate points will promptly report by letter, all extraordinary failures, interruptions or abandonment of routes; and in fact give from time to time, all such information as may aid the Department in enforcing the strictest performance of duty on the part of contractors and securing for the community the greatest possible regularity, safety and efficiency in the mail service.

SEC. 306. Special reports, and all complaints of mail failures should state the number, or, if the number is not known, the termini of the route.

SEC. 307. Particular care must be exercised in the making out of all registers of arrivals and departures of the mails. The blanks at the head of each should all be properly filled—giving the name, county and State of the office, the number of the route, and the names of the places where it terminates, with the contract days and hours of arrival and departure. All registers should be fully dated—showing the day of the week, the month and the year. When there is a failure to arrive or depart, write opposite to its date “Failure ;” when a failure to connect, write “Failed to Connect ;” and when a complaint for failure to arrive in time, write “Complaint.”

CHAPTER 42.

Failures of Mails.

SEC. 308. Failures of mails to arrive at the ends of routes and other points within contract time, cannot but be known in all cases to contractors or their agents.

SEC. 309. No notice, therefore, is necessary to be given to contractors of failures to arrive in any post office in contract time, as reported by postmasters to the Department, but when the failure is caused by the neglect of a carrier employed by the contractor, the postmaster will notify the contractor of the failure and require him to take measures to prevent its recurrence.

SEC. 310. Should a mail at any time fail to arrive at the end of a route or at any intermediate post office, where the time of arrival is fixed, within the time specified in the contract or schedule, it will be expected of every contractor immediately, by himself or agent, to send his excuse to the Inspection Office, setting forth, particularly, the cause of the failure; and if, after waiting a reasonable time, no specific and satisfactory excuse be received, the Chief Clerk is directed to present the case thus reported to the Postmaster General for fine.

SEC. 311. A specific excuse is required for each specific delinquency of any contractor; so that general allegations will not be admitted. If bad roads be alleged, a specific report must be made of what portion of the road was so bad as to obstruct the mails, and what was its peculiar condition; if high waters, it must be shown what water-courses were impassible; and so of all other excuses.

CHAPTER 43.

Forfeitures and Fines.

SEC. 312. In all cases there is to be a forfeiture of the pay of the trip when the trip is not run; and of not more than three times the pay of the trip when the trip is not run, and no sufficient excuse for the failure is furnished, a forfeiture of at least one-fourth part of it when the running or arrival is so far behind time as to lose the connexion with a depending mail; and a forfeiture of a due proportion of it when a grade of service is rendered inferior to that in the contract. These forfeitures may be increased into penalties of higher amount, according to the nature or frequency of the failures and the importance of the mail.

SEC. 313. Whenever it be satisfactorily shown that the contractors, their carriers, or agents, have left or put aside the mail, or any portion of it, for the accommodation of passengers, they shall forfeit not exceeding a quarter's pay.

SEC. 314. Fines will be imposed unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained in due time, for failing to take from, or deliver at, a post office, the mail or any part of it: for suffering it to be wet, injured, lost, or destroyed: for conveying it in a place or manner that exposes it to depredation, loss, or injury; for refusing after demand to convey a mail by any coach, railroad car, or steamboat, which the contractor regularly runs, or is concerned in running, on the route, beyond the specified number of trips in the contract, and for not arriving at the time set: and for setting up or running an express to transmit commercial intelligence in advance of the mail, a penalty will be exacted equal to a quarter's pay.

SEC. 315. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for repeated failures; for violating the post office laws; for disobeying the instructions of the Department; for refusing to discharge a carrier when required by the Department; for assigning the contract without the consent of the Postmaster General, or for setting up or running an express as aforesaid, or for transporting persons conveying mail matter out of the mail.

SEC. 316. The Postmaster General may alter the contract, and alter the schedule, he allowing a pro rata increase of compensation, within the restrictions imposed by law, for the additional service required, or for the increased speed, if the employment of additional stock or carriers is rendered necessary; but the contractor may, in the case of increased expedition, relinquish the contract on timely notice, if he prefer it to the change.

SEC. 317. The Postmaster General may annul the contract, or discontinue, or curtail the service and pay, when he wishes to dispense with the service, in whole or in part, or to place a higher or different grade of service on the route, or whenever the public interests require such discontinuance or curtailment for any other cause, he allowing one month's extra pay on the amount of service dispensed with.

CHAPTER 44.

Penalties.

SEC. 318. Every postmaster will give his particular attention to the following enumeration of crimes and offences against the Post Office Department. He will diligently inquire, within his delivery, into the commission of any of the acts or doings therein prohibited, and for proof sufficient to sustain a prosecution for any such offences. In most cases these penalties may be sued for by actions qui tam, in which cases one-half the penalty will accrue to the United States and one-half to the person who prosecutes. In all cases, in which expense may be incurred by the United States, unless there be occasion for immediate proceedings, he will first report the facts to the Department.

DISTRICT No. 4.

Depot at Buffalo, New York.

Postmasters in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Minnesota, will apply to the "Postmaster at Buffalo, New York."

It is desirable that these instructions should be observed, and their directions strictly attended to, which will prevent the delay and inconvenience which so frequently arise from postmasters applying for blanks at the wrong place.

SEC. 320. When the postages collected at an office amount to $300 a year, the name of the postmaster will be printed on the post-bills.

CHAPTER 46.

Office Stamps, Mail Locks and Keys, and Letter Balances.

SEC. 321. Marking and rating stamps of metal are furnished only to offices that collect in postages $300 a year; but stamps made of wood are furnished to offices collecting in postages $200 per year. Application for these stamps should be made to the Appointment Office. If procured elsewhere by postmasters themselves, it must be done at their own expense.

SEC. 322. Letter balances, upon the like application, are furnished to offices which collect in postages $75 a year.

SEC. 323. Locks and keys are furnished, when wanted, upon application to the Inspection Office, addressed to the "CHIEF CLERK." These applications, and all other official statements addressed to the Inspection Office, should be signed by the postmaster only, except in case of sickness or unavoidable absence, when they may be signed by an assistant.

SEC. 324. Postmasters at the principal offices are supplied with several locks, in order that they may be used when extra mail bags are forwarded. In such cases, they should see that the locks and mail bags are returned, and report any postmaster who shall unnecessarily detain them.

SEC. 325. The mail key should be kept with great care. It should never be carried out of the office, but be secured therein, under lock, and accessible only to the postmaster and his assistant. It will be deemed highly reprehensible in any postmaster to lose the mail key.

SEC. 326. Application for mail keys should be made directly to the Inspection Office, and should state the reason why a new key is wanted. If one be lost or broken, its place may be supplied by borrowing from an adjacent office, until another is furnished by the Inspection Office, when the borrowed key must be returned.

SEC. 327. In case a key is lost or broken, the chain or strap of the mail bag ought not to be cut, but the fact should be notified to the next postmaster, who should be requested to take out the packets addressed to his office, and send them out of the mail, until a new key be obtained.

SEC. 328. Every postmaster, in cases where the mail arrives at his office without a lock upon the bag, should procure a common pad lock, and lock up the mail therewith, the key of which to be sealed up, and delivered to the carrier, and addressed to the next postmaster on the route.

SEC. 329. Whenever a lock shall be broken, or otherwise become unfit for use, it must in every case, be immediately returned by mail to the Inspection Office.

SEC. 330. When an application for a new key is made to supply the place of a broken key, all the parts of the broken key should be returned to the Inspection Office.

CHAPTER 47.

Mail Pouches and Mail Bags.

SEC. 331. All communications relating to portmanteaus, mail pouches and mail bags, should be addressed to the "CHIEF CLERK, POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT."

SEC. 332. When a postmaster at the end of a route discovers a mail bag to be out of order, he will immediately have it repaired, and charge the amount in his account of contingent expenses, and send a receipt therefor. But if it be so unsound as that the mail will not be secure in it until it gets to the end of the route, the postmaster who first discovers its condition will have it repaired, even though it should detain the mail.

SEC. 333. Mails of letters and newspapers, before being put into the mail bag, are to be placed in separate linen or light canvass bags, where such bags are used; and whenever these bags are worn out, or lost, the postmasters at the ends of routes will apply to the Inspection Office for such bags as may be necessary for the transportation of the mail.

SEC. 334. All mail bags not in use should be immediately returned to the office from which they were sent. Postmasters who send extra bags should see that they are returned; this they can do by writing to the postmasters who retain them. If they be not returned, the facts should be reported to the Inspection Office.

SEC. 335. A sufficient number of mail bags should be retained at distributing offices, and at offices where the parts of a large mail are separated for several routes, to send the mail matter for all such routes.

SEC. 336. When a new mail bag is wanted, application must be made to the Inspection Office, describing the size and the number of the route on which it is to be used. No allowance will be made to postmasters or contractors for mail bags procured by them, without special instructions from the Department.

SEC. 337. Postmasters whose offices are mail bag depots, may furnish mail bags in cases of great emergency, in which cases, they will make a report to the Department, stating the kind of bag, and the number of the route upon which it is placed. The established depots from which quarterly returns must be made to the Inspection Office of the number and description of mail bags and mail locks, are as follows :

Portland and Bangor, Maine; Portsmouth and Concord, New Hampshire; Montpelier and Bennington, Vermont; Boston, Massachusetts; Providence, Rhode Island; Hartford, Connecticut; New York City, Albany, Rochester and Buffalo, New York; Trenton, New Jersey; Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburg, Pennsylvania; Baltimore, Maryland; Washington, District of Columbia; Richmond, Wheeling and Abingdon, Virginia; Raleigh and Asheville, North Carolina; Charleston and Columbia, South Carolina; Augusta, Savannah and Columbus, Georgia; Tallahassee, Florida; Mobile, Tuscaloosa and Huntsville, Alabama; Jackson and Natchez, Mississippi; New Orleans, Louisiana; Little Rock, Arkansas; Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis, Tennessee; Louisville and Maysville, Kentucky; Columbus, Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio; Detroit, Michigan; Indianapolis and Vincennes, Indiana; Springfield, Galena and Chicago, Illinois; Jefferson City and Liberty, Missouri; Madison, Wisconsin; Iowa City, Iowa; Galveston, Texas; San Francisco, California; and Astoria in Oregon.

These returns, one for mail bags and another for locks, must be transmitted immediately upon the close of each fiscal quarter. They must show: 1st, the number and description of the respective articles on hand at the beginning of the quarter; 2d, the number and description received and distributed during the quarter; and 3d, the residue remaining on hand at its termination.

CHAPTER 48.

They are also to post-bill in due form (blanks being specially prepared for the purpose) and to keep an account of these mails separately from their ordinary returns, which accounts they are to transmit monthly to the Auditor for the Post Office Department.

SEC. 344. Postmasters will be allowed a compensation of seven per cent. on the postages of letters, &c., received from the British Provinces and distributed in the United States, and a commission of three and a half per cent. on letters, &c., sent into those Provinces from the United States.

SEC. 345. For the mails to and from any places beyond sea, to which regular contract lines are not established, as hereinbefore stated, all offices at sea ports in the United States, to and from which merchant ships sail to such places, are offices of despatch.

SEC. 346. On letters intended to be sent by private ship, inland postage must be pre-paid to the office at the port of departure. Letters so received, together with those dropped into the office, are to be marked with the name of the office and the time of reception.

SEC. 347. As soon as the postmaster finds that a vessel is ready to sail, which will be convenient to carry letters to the place of their destination, he will carefully examine all such letters, and see that there are none among them destined to another place. He will then count them, and enter their number in a bill. If there be few letters, and no bag for them furnished by the master of the vessel, they may be made into a bundle like a common mail, taking care to enclose the certificate with them, and sealing the wrapper with the office seal. If a bag be furnished, the string is to be sealed with the office seal. And if there be many letters, and no bag furnished by the master of the vessel, the postmaster will furnish one, and charge it to the Department.

SEC. 348. The postmaster will obtain from the master of any private ship bringing letters or packets, a certificate, specifying the number, with the name of the ship or vessel, and place from whence she last sailed, and a receipt for the money paid.

SEC. 349. He will rate them with the proper postage and mark the number forwarded to other offices and the number for delivery at his own office, on each certificate, and will then enter them in the Account of ship and steamboat letters.

CHAPTER 49.

Unlawful carrying of mailable matter by private Expresses and otherwise.

SEC. 350. No person can lawfully carry or transport any letter, packet, newspaper, or printed circular or price current, on board any packet in which the United States mail is regularly carried to or from foreign countries, with the exception of newspapers in use and not intended for circulation in the country to which the vessel may be bound.—4th sec. act 3d March, 1845.

SEC. 351. The establishment of private expresses for the conveyance of any letter, packet or packets of letters, or other matter transmittable in the United States mail, (newspapers, pamphlets, magazines, and periodicals excepted,) from one city, town, or other place, to any other city, town, or place in the United States, between and from and to which the United States mail is regularly transported under authority of the Post Office Department, is prohibited.

SEC. 352. So is the causing to be conveyed, or the providing for the conveyance or transportation, by regular trips, or at stated periods or intervals, as aforesaid, of any letters or other matter transmittable by mail as aforesaid, newspapers, pamphlets, magazines, and periodicals only excepted.

SEC. 353. Every person offending against this provision, or aiding or assisting therein, or acting as such private express, shall forfeit and pay one hundred and fifty dollars for each time any letter or letters, packet or packets, or other matter properly transmittable by mail, (except newspapers, &c.,) shall, or may be by him, her, or them, or through his, her, or their means or instrumentality, in whole or in part, conveyed.

SEC. 354. A like fine of one hundred and fifty dollars is imposed on the owner or owners of any stage coach, railroad car, steamboat, or other vehicle or vessel, which shall, with the knowledge of any of the owners, in whole or in part, or which shall, with the knowledge or connivance of the driver, conductor, captain, or other person having charge of such stage coach, &c., convey or transport any person or persons acting or employed as a private express for the conveyance of any letter, packet or packets of letters, or other mailable matter, and actually in possession of such mailable matter.

SEC. 355. This is not to prohibit the conveyance of any letter, packet, or packets, or other matter, by private hands, no compensation being tendered or received therefor in any way, or by special messenger employed only for the single particular occasion.

SEC. 356. Stage coaches, railroad cars, steamboats, packetboats, and all other vehicles or vessels performing regular trips at stated periods, on a post route between two or more cities, towns, or places, from one to the other, of which the United States mail is regularly conveyed under the authority of the Post Office Department, are prohibited from transporting or conveying, otherwise than in the mail, any letter, packet, or packets of letters, or other mailable matter whatsoever, except such as may have relation to some part of the cargo of such steamboat, packetboat, or other vessel, or to some article at the same time conveyed by such stage, railroad car, or other vehicle, and excepting also, newspapers, pamphlets, magazines, and periodicals.

SEC. 357. The owners, managers, servants, or crew of all stage coaches, railroad cars, steamboats, packetboats, and all other vehicles or vessels, are also prohibited from conveying as aforesaid.

SEC. 358. For each offence the owners of the stage coach, railroad car, steamboat, packetboat, or other vehicle or vessel, shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars; and the driver, captain, conductor, or person having charge of such coach, &c., not being at the time the owner thereof, in whole or in part, shall forfeit and pay fifty dollars.

SEC. 359. The person who transmits by private express, or any other means prohibited by the act of 3d March, 1845, any letter or letters, packet or packets, or other mailable matter, excepting newspapers, pamphlets, magazines, or periodicals; or who shall place or cause to be deposited at any appointed place, for the purpose of being transported by such unlawful means, any matter or thing properly transmittable by mail, (newspapers, &c., excepted,) or who shall deliver them for transmission to any agent or agents of such unlawful expresses, shall forfeit and pay for each offence, fifty dollars.

SEC. 360. Steamboats can carry letters under the fifth and sixth sections of the act of 1825; provided the letters are delivered over to the postmaster of the place, or the authorized agent of the Department, such letters excepted as relate to the cargo. If the letters are not delivered as aforesaid, the owners and persons having charge of the boat shall be liable to the penalty specified in the foregoing section, No. 358.

SEC. 361. The postmaster or other agent of the Department, to whom letters brought by steamboat are delivered, shall charge and collect upon them the same rates of postage as would have been charged had they been transmitted by mail.

SEC. 362. Postmasters are specially enjoined promptly to report to the Department all violations of the law—by those carrying expresses—by those setting them up—by those sending letters or packets by them—by those leaving letters, &c. at any appointed place to be forwarded out of the mail—by those delivering them to any agent of an express—and by those in any other way aiding or assisting in such unlawful transmission.

SEC. 363. They will also report all cases coming to their knowledge where railroads or steamboats, or mail conveyances of any description, convey letters, &c. out of the mail, or transport any persons carrying letters, &c. out of the mail, to the end that suits may be brought against the owners, directors, officers, captains, conductors, or hands, according to their knowledge of such illegal practices, or their connivance, or agency therein.

SEC. 364. The report of the postmaster will consist of a statement of the offence, giving time and place, the name of the offender, and the names of the witnesses.

SEC. 365. The prosecutions when ordered by this Department will be instituted in the district courts in the United States.

SEC. 366. But any citizen is authorized to prosecute for the penalties in a qui tam suit, and in that case will be entitled to one-half of the amount received in each instance.

CHAPTER 50.

Postage Stamps.

SEC. 367. To facilitate the prepayment of postages upon letters and packages, postage stamps of the following denominations are provided and furnished by the Postmaster General, pursuant to the 3d section of the "Act to reduce and modify the rates of postage in the United States, and for other purposes," approved 3d March, 1851, viz:

No. 1. Printed in black, representing the head of Washington, of the denomination of twelve cents.

No. 2. Printed in red, representing the head of Washington in profile, of the denomination of three cents.

No. 3. Printed in blue, representing the head of Franklin in profile, of the denomination of one cent.

SEC. 368. These stamps are furnished to one or more of the principal postmasters in each county, who are required to supply the other postmasters in their respective vicinities, upon being paid for the amounts applied for and furnished.

SEC. 369. Postmasters who purchase stamps from other postmasters, under the preceding regulation, are not required to render to the Department any account of the stamps so purchased and sold by them.

SEC. 370. Every postmaster receiving stamps for sale directly from the Department, will, at the end of each quarter, charge himself, in his quarterly account current, with any amount of stamps he may have received from his predecessor, or which remained on hand at the close of the preceding quarter adding thereto the amounts received from the Department during the quarter just ended, and crediting himself with the amount of stamps then remaining on hand. The balance of the account thus stated will represent the amount of stamps sold, which must be added on the debit side of his quarterly account current to the amount due on the regular return of postages for the quarter.— (See Chap. 34, Regulation 247.)

SEC. 371. In case of resignation, removal, or death, the postmaster or his representative will not be allowed a credit for any stamps turned over to his successor, unless such successor have duly qualified by giving bond; nor unless his receipt for the amount shall be transmitted to the Auditor for the Post Office Department before the end of the quarter in which the stamps were turned over.

SEC. 372. Any letter or packet with one or more postage stamps affixed, equal in amount to the postage properly chargeable thereon, may be mailed and forwarded from any post office as a pre-paid letter or packet; but if the postage stamps affixed be not adequate to the proper postage, the postmaster mailing the letter or packet, will admit the pre-payment of as many rates as the stamps upon it represent, and charge the excess with postage at the unpaid rates, to be collected at the office of delivery.

SEC. 373. No other postage stamps than those described in the foregoing regulation, No. 367, are authorized to be used in the pre-payment of the postage on any letter or packet mailed at one post office in the United States to be conveyed to another post office in the United States. All other stamps upon letters and packets so conveyed must be disregarded.

SEC. 374. Postage stamps may be used in pre-payment of postage on letters to foreign countries, in all cases where such pre-payment can be made in money.

SEC. 375. When letters to foreign countries are pre-paid by stamps, the mailing Postmaster should cancel the stamps, and be careful to rate and mark the letters with red ink, as if pre-paid in money.

SEC. 376. A Postmaster may not refuse to mail and forward a letter as pre-paid because the postage stamp or stamps affixed to it were not purchased at his office.

SEC. 377. Every Postmaster to whom stamps are sent by the Department, is specially required to keep always on hand a quantity of stamps sufficient to supply the demands of postmasters and other persons applying and paying for them.

SEC. 378. The law makes no compensation to postmasters for the sale of postage stamps except by the allowance of commissions on such as are used in pre-payment of postage on letters and packages sent from their offices; neither does it allow any discount to those who purchase.

SEC. 379. All postage stamps affixed to letters, packets or parcels of any description, must be immediately and effectually cancelled in the office in which the letters, packets or parcels may be deposited for transmission or delivery.

SEC. 380. The cancellation should be effected by the use of black printers' ink wherever that material can be obtained; and where it cannot, the operation should be performed by making several heavy crosses or parallel lines upon each stamp with a pen dipped in good black writing ink.

SEC. 381. If the cancelling have been omitted on the mailing of the letter, packet, or parcel, or if the cancellation be incomplete, the postmaster at the office of delivery will cancel the stamp in the manner directed, and forthwith report the delinquent postmaster to the Postmaster General, as the law requires.

SEC. 382. The use of the office dating or postmarking stamp as a cancelling instrument is prohibited—unless it be used with black printer's ink and in such manner as thoroughly to effect the object.

SEC. 383. Letters and packets, and parcels chargeable with letter postage, and prepaid by stamp, will be entered on the post-bills, and also on the transcripts of mails sent and mails received, in the appropriate columns, headed "prepaid by stamps."

SEC. 384. The postage on newspapers, magazines, and pamphlets, prepaid by stamps, will in like manner be entered in the proper transcript or account of newspapers, magazines, pamphlets, and other pre-paid printed matter in the column headed "pre-paid by stamps."

SEC. 385. In making up his quarterly account the postmaster: will not charge himself in his quarterly account current with the amount of mailable matter pre-paid by stamps, which may have been received at or sent from his office; but he may take his commissions on the amount of such matter originally sent from his office, in the same manner as if the pre-payment had been made in money, and without regard to where the stamps may have been purchased.

SEC. 386. All postage stamps, whether attached to letters, packets, or parcels chargeable with letter postage, or to newspapers, magazines, pamphlets, or other printed matter, must be entered in the appropriate columns of the transcripts belonging to the quarterly returns, and the columns carefully footed up, that the Department may readily ascertain the quantity of stamps used in the mails and cancelled.

SEC. 387. Postmasters receiving postage stamps from the Department for sale, will pay over the money by them received for stamps sold, at the same time and in the same manner as their special instructions require them to pay over the quarterly balances due for postages.

SEC. 388. The third section of the "Act to reduce and modify the rates of postage," &c., approved 3d March, 1851, declares that "any person who shall forge or counterfeit any postage stamp provided or furnished under the provisions of this or any former act, whether the same are impressed or printed on, or attached to envelopes or not, or any die, plate, or engraving therefor, or shall make, or print, or knowingly use or sell, or have in his possession, with intent to use or sell, any such false, forged, or counterfeited die, plate, engraving, or postage stamp, or who shall make or print, or authorize or procure to be made or printed, any postage stamps of the kind provided and furnished by the Postmaster General as aforesaid, without the especial authority and direction of the Post Office Department, or who, after such postage stamps have been printed, shall, with intent to defraud the revenues of the Post Office Department, deliver any postage stamps to any person or persons, other than such as shall be authorized to receive the same by an instrument of writing, duly executed under the hand of the Postmaster General, and the seal of the Post Office Department, shall, on conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of felony, and be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment." And the fourth section of said act provides that, "if any person shall use, or attempt to use in prepayment of postage, any postage stamp which shall have been before used for like purposes, such person shall be subject to a penalty of fifty dollars for every such offence, to be recovered in the name of the United States in any court of competent jurisdiction."

SEC. 389. No application enclosing money to the Department for stamps will be attended to further than to return the money by mail, and refer the applicant to the nearest post office authorized to sell stamps.

SEC. 390. Postmasters should apply for postage stamps to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, to whom the receipts for them should be promptly transmitted.

CHAPTER 51.

Miscellaneous.

As the articles embraced in the following chapters were adopted after the preceding chapters had been put to press, no reference is made to them in the Index.

SEC. 391. Foreign postages not noted in the general table:—

To Buenos Ayres, or any other part of the Argentine Republic, via Falmouth, England, single rate, 45 cents, to be prepaid.

To Montevideo by same route, single rate 83 cents, to be prepaid.

To Venezuela, 45 cents, to be prepaid.

SEC. 392. Explanatory. On newspapers to the West Indies, (not British,) and places on the Spanish main, where the United States mail steamers do not touch, the postage—which must be prepaid—is six instead of four cents each—the British postage alone being four cents.

SEC. 393. All unpaid newspapers, pamphlets, and other printed matter, mailed in any foreign country, and received at any Post office in the United States, which may be refused, or cannot be delivered as addressed, must be returned to the Department as dead matter—in the same manner, and under the same general regulations as apply to the return of dead letters, and should be addressed to the Third Assistant Postmaster General.

SEC. 394. No Postmaster, Assistant Postmaster, or clerk employed in a Post Office, can hold a mail contract or be concerned in carrying the mail.—Act of 1825, sec. 42. ↪ See also act of 1836, sec. 26, p. 44 of the Laws—to which the special attention of Postmasters and their clerks is directed. ↪

SEC. 395. It is forbidden that any person be employed as assistant or clerk in any Post office, or as a mail carrier, who shall be at the time when he subscribes the required oath of office, less than sixteen years old.

CHAPTER 52.

Distribution of Wrapping Paper, Sealing Wax, and Twine.

SEC. 396. Deputy Postmasters who have been or shall be appointed by the President of the United States, and all other Postmasters whose compensation for the year ending June 30th, 1851, amounted to three hundred dollars, shall be supplied with wrapping paper, sealing wax, and twine for the use of their offices in the manner following:

“ 1. Such wrapping paper, sealing wax, and twine shall be procured from the several persons who have contracted to supply the same, by the agents appointed for the distribution of Post Office blanks, each of which said agents shall procure such articles only for the use of the Post Offices in the District to which he shall supply said blanks, and shall so procure the same upon his written requisition upon the person or persons who have contracted to supply the Post Offices aforesaid with the same.

“ 2. Such articles shall then be supplied to the Post Offices aforesaid, by the agent for the district in which the Post Office requiring the same is situated, and shall be supplied upon the written requisition of the several Postmasters aforesaid made upon the agents aforesaid.

“ 3. Each of such requisitions shall be for a supply of such articles not exceeding what may probably be required for a period of six months, and shall specify separately and distinctly the different articles required.

“ 4. The agents aforesaid shall exercise a reasonable discretion in making such supplies, and shall furnish less than the amount of the requisition if they think the same excessive.

“ 5. The agents aforesaid shall at the end of each quarter, transmit to the Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department, a separate and accurate account, specifying the quantity and aggregate value of each item of the articles supplied to each of said offices in that quarter, and shall accompany each of said accounts with a separate and general statement of the quantity and aggregate value of each item of said articles previously furnished to the office to which said more particular account relates.

“ 6. Such agents shall also at the time of transmitting such accounts furnish a statement of the amount of each item of such articles had by them on hand at the commencement of the quarter for which the account is rendered, of the amount and aggregate value of each item procured in said quarter, and of the amount of each item which they shall have on hand at the end of said quarter.”

The Postmasters aforesaid will apply for such articles in the manner hereinafter specified :

Postmasters in district number one—which consists of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, California and Oregon, will apply to the “ POSTMASTER AT NEW YORK, N. Y.”

Postmasters in district number two—which consists of the District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Florida, will apply to the "FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL, WASHINGTON, D. C."

Postmasters in district number three—which consists of Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, and Utah, will apply to the "POSTMASTER AT CINCINNATI, OHIO."

Postmasters in district number four—which consists of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Minnesota, will apply to the "POSTMASTER AT BUFFALO, N. Y."

It is expected that under this arrangement the offices for which a direct supply of wrapping paper is not provided, will be supplied by the re-use of the wrappers received from the first mentioned class of offices. If, however, that supply shall be found insufficient, the class of offices supplied directly by the distributing agent will be increased.

CHAPTER 53.

Increased commissions to Postmasters.

SEC. 397. Under the authority vested in him by the sixth section of the act of 1851, providing for the allowance of increased commissions to Postmasters in certain cases, the Postmaster General on the 29th October, 1851, issued a circular order referring to that act and establishing the Regulations of the Department on that subject, which are as follows:

"It is ordered, that, whenever the Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department shall have satisfactory proof, by affidavit or otherwise, that the labors of any Postmaster have been increased and his commissions reduced, as provided for by said act, he shall allow and credit such Postmaster with commissions according to the following rules, to wit:

1. Where the commissions of such Postmaster, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1851, did not exceed fifty dollars, the same amount of commissions allowed for that year, with twenty per cent. added thereto, shall be allowed and credited to the Postmaster for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1852.

2. Where the commissions of such Postmaster, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1851, exceeded fifty dollars, and did not exceed one hundred dollars, the same amount of commissions allowed for that year, with fifteen per cent. added thereto, shall be allowed and credited to the Postmaster for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1852.

3. Where the commissions of such Postmaster, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1851, exceeded one hundred and did not exceed five hundred dollars, the same amount of commissions allowed for that year, with twelve and a half per cent. added thereto, shall be allowed and credited to the Postmaster for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1852.

4. Where the commissions of such Postmaster, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1851, exceeded five hundred dollars, the same amount of commissions allowed for that year, with ten per cent. added thereto, shall be allowed and credited to the Postmaster for the year ending June 30, 1852.

Provided, always, That the commissions to be allowed at any Post Office (other than a distributing office) shall not exceed the postages collected at such office during the period for which such allowance is made: Provided, also, That a special application for a further allowance to any distributing office may be made whenever the Auditor shall certify that the commissions authorized to be allowed under this order are insufficient to pay the actual and necessary expenses of such office, including the compensation of the Postmaster.

And provided, further, That there shall not be allowed at any office, where the compensation of the Postmaster is by law limited to a fixed salary or compensation, any greater sum than shall be required to pay such salary or compensation, and the actual and necessary expenses of his office.

The rate of allowance after the present fiscal year is reserved for future consideration, and will be determined upon after the accounts for the first three quarters of the present fiscal year have been adjusted by the Auditor."

To carry this order into effect the Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department issued a circular letter of instructions to Postmasters. These instructions are adopted as Regulations of the Department, and will be observed by Postmasters accordingly. They are as follows:

"Postmasters entitled to increased commissions under the order of the Postmaster General are required to furnish this office with proof, by affidavit, that the labors of their respective offices have increased under the operation of the new postage law, which may be in the following, or like form, viz:

STATE OF

} ss.

I, _____ Postmaster at _____ in said State, do solemnly swear that the labors of my office of Postmaster, during the quarter for which the above account is rendered, have been increased by the operation of the postage act of March 3d, 1851, and that they exceeded for such quarter those of the corresponding quarter of the year ending June 30th, 1851.

Subscribed and sworn before me, this _____ day of _____ 185 .

Justice of the Peace.

The additional commissions are allowed for increase of labor in performing the same kind of service; consequently, allowances for night-mail, or other special service, made in the last year, will not be considered as part of the commissions in the computation, unless such special service continues to be performed: which must be shown by the usual certificate, or proof.

Postmasters will compute their commissions, in the quarterly accounts current, in the same manner as heretofore, viz: On letter postages, in each quarter of a year, and in due proportion for every fractional part of a quarter, 40 per cent. on the first $100;
33 $\frac{1}{3}$ " " next 300;
30 " " " 2,000;
12 $\frac{1}{2}$ " " all over 2,400.

On newspaper, pamphlet, and magazine postage, at the office where it is paid, 50 per cent., whether on received or sent.

On letters received for distribution at such offices as are designated by the Postmaster General, 7 per cent.

At offices where the mail is regularly to arrive between the hours of 9 o'clock in the evening and 5 o'clock in the morning, fifty instead of forty per cent. is allowed on the first $100 of letter postage; but the P. M. entitled to allowance for night-mail service should append to, or write on, the margin of his quarterly account current, the following certificate:

POST OFFICE, _____, 185 .

"I certify, that the regular time of the arrival of the Mail at my office for the quarter ending _____, was between the hours of 9 o'clock in the evening and 5 o'clock in the morning.

"_____, P. M."

Ten cents a month for each route may be charged when a Postmaster is required by the Department to return monthly or weekly registers of the arrivals and departures of the mails.

When the quarterly returns are examined, and the regular commissions ascertained, the additional commissions for the quarter, as compared with the corresponding quarter of the last year, will be credited to such Postmasters as may appear entitled thereto; but all such credits will be only conditional, until it is ascertained by the adjustment of the accounts for the last quarter of the fiscal year, whether or not the commissions for the year are reduced below those allowed for last year.

The accounts of postages on newspapers, and other printed matter, must be rendered strictly in accordance with the tables furnished by the Department. The new blanks provided for the purpose must be properly filled up, or the old ones altered to conform to the law. This duty is a material part of the increased labor imposed on Postmasters under the new law, for which the additional commissions are allowed.

Letter postage, prepaid by stamps, should not be included in the "postage paid in money on letters sent," on No. 7 of the account current, but the amount prepaid by stamps must be stated on the credit side of the account on No. 22, for the purpose of calculating commissions thereon, and the same regulation applies to newspapers prepaid by stamps, the amount of which is entered in No. 24 of the account.

Postmasters may frequently save themselves from loss, and this office from unnecessary trouble, by paying strict attention to the reference in section 247 to article 9 of the account current, in the Post Office Regulations, which is as follows:

"In article 9, every postmaster will debit himself with the whole amount he has paid during the quarter for advertising letters, and credited as contingent expenses in article 27. This debit and credit operate merely as counter entries. He will mark the cost of advertising on each letter advertised. Upon every letter delivered, he will collect this cost in addition to the postage, and upon those remaining, sent as dead letters to the Department, he will charge it, and will thus be exactly reimbursed.

One cent only is allowed for advertising each letter."

Although the account of Postmasters for the first three quarters of the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1852, have not been fully adjusted, the Postmaster General has determined that the rate of allowance of increased commissions for the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1853, shall be twenty per cent. in all cases—subject however to the provisions and limitations contained in the foregoing order.

ERRATA.

- On page 9 of the Index, the reference which on the eleventh line, follows "Dispatch and receipt of Foreign Mails" should be to Section 338, instead of 48.
- On page 9, Regulations, section 24, 7th line, read Second, instead of First Assistant.
- On page 4, Regulations, the chapter designated as that to which the special attention of Postmasters is directed for an enumeration of their duties in connection with the Inspection Office, should be 42, instead of 54.
- On page 36, Regulations, the "do" after Mazatlan should be stricken out, Mazatlan being in Mexico.
- On page 50, Regulations, chapter 29, in the second line of the second paragraph, read printed, instead of pointed.
- In the note at the foot of page 44 Laws, the reference should be to 42d section of the act of March 3d, 1825, instead of the act of July 21, 1836.
