Agriculture Census Questionnaires

The Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce, is mailing Agriculture Census questionnaire forms to each boxholder on all rural and star routes in the country. The mail will be addressed and prepared in accordance with the provisions of section 123.4, Postal Manual.

The mailings are scheduled so that the questionnaires should reach farm operators at the beginning of an enumeration period. The questionnaires will reach the delivery offices between now and November 6, depending upon the enumeration starting date for the area.

Postmasters are requested to see that delivery of these questionnaires is not delayed.—Bureau of Operations, 10-1-59.

Christmas Packages for Abroad

In anticipation of the increased mailing of parcel post packages to other countries during the holiday season, postmasters must see that accepting employees thoroughly familiarize themselves with applicable regulations. General information concerning the mailing of international parcels appears in part 222 and section 384.1 of the Postal Manual. Specific regulations concerning each individual country are shown under the caption Parcel Post of the country item in the Directory of International Mail.

Accepting employees must in every case see that the correct number of Forms 2922, Instructions Given by Sender; 2966, Customs Declarations; and 2972, Dispatch Note, as indicated under the parcel post caption of the appropriate country items in the Directory of International Mail, are attached to parcels for other countries. Require mailers to describe the contents of parcels in detail on the customs declaration tag, Form 2966, showing the exact nature, quantity and value of each kind of article enclosed. General description such as Christmas gifts, clothing, merchandise, are not acceptable.

Accepting employees must particularly familiarize themselves with the packing requirements for international parcels set forth in section 222.21, Postal Manual. If a parcel tendered for mailing is not packed adequately for the length of the journey and the protection of the contents, the mailer should be informed that it cannot be accepted until properly prepared.

Special attention should also be given to the current export license regulations in subchapter 270 and in part 385 of the Postal Manual.

The long sea transit frequently involved in the transmission of parcels by surface means, and customs inspection and other formalities that parcels may be subjected to in the countries of destination, require that mailings be made as early as practicable to assure delivery by Christmas Day. Surface parcels mailed not later than the dates shown below will normally reach their destination before Christmas.

Air service is available to practically all countries of the world. Recommend to senders that airmail packages be mailed during the early part of December in order to reach the addressees before Christmas.

Postmasters should give as much publicity as possible to this subject without expense to the Department.—Bureau of Transportation, 10-1-59.

All Postal InstallationsSnow and Ice Melting Materials

Rock salt, flake calcium chloride, and calcium chloride pellets may be used for the melting of snow and ice to facilitate their removal and to overcome slippery conditions where necessary.

Calcium chloride, either flake or pellets will melt ice faster than rock salt, particularly at temperatures below 25 degrees Fahrenheit. Flake calcium chloride melts from the top down but the pellets will cut through and undercut the ice. Rock salt also cuts through the ice and undercuts in a similar manner but more slowly than calcium chloride.

In some instances it may be desirable to mix calcium chloride pellets and rock salt in equal parts. The calcium chloride will give quick penetration and the slower acting salt will continue to melt the ice after the action of the calcium chloride has stopped.

These materials should be procured locally under local purchase procedures and limitations.
